COERCION USED ON UNCLE SAM BY MONOPOLY

Startling Revelations by Dickinson About Pacific Mail and Harriman Lines.

GOVERNMENT FORCED TO BOW TO MONOPOLY

Secretary Dickinson Says if He Had Not Granted Demands of Monopoly Government's Panama Railway Would Have Had No Outlet on the Pacific Coast.

Washington, February 28.—Secretary of War Dickinson proposes that the anti-trust laws be invoked to break up the monopoly which the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the Harrison Transcontinental lines have on business between Pacific coast ports and the Isthmus of Panama.

When it was suggested today that suit under the Sherman law might fail because of lack of proof that the steamship company operated as an independent line would be considered a competitor of the Southern Pacific railroad, members of the senate committee on interoceanic canals discussed the advisability of recommending legislation that would reach the merger.

The hearing today was held in order to give the secretary of war opportunity to answer the criticism of Senator Bristow that the government was giving aid to the transcontinental railroads by not encouraging the establishment of an important line on the Pacific coast as was proposed by B. N. Baker, of Baltimore.

Practically Coerced.

Secretary Dickinson produced the the proposed contract to show his understanding of the offer. It indicated that the company was to have an exclusive contract and many other favors that Mr. Dickinson said could not be granted under authority vested in him or any other member of the president's cabinet.

The statement had been made by Mr. Dickinson that he had practically been coerced by a serious situation into consenting to the demand of the Pacific Mail for 70 per cent of the joint rate. The Pacific Mail had threatened to withdraw its ships, and if this had been done, he said it would have left the government line without an outlet on the Pacific coast.

"If the ships on the Pacific side had been withdrawn I felt that my position would have been indefensible and, therefore, I was forced to accept the terms offered by the Pacific Mail," said the secretary.

"Did you ever make an investigation to determine whether the Pacific Mail is controlled by the Harriman lines?" asked Chairman Flint.

Mr. Dickinson replied that he had seen President Schwering, of the Pacific Mail, only once, and they had had an unpleasant interview. Schwering insisted, he said, that his steamship line was independent of the Southern Pacific and upon that point they could not agree.

How to Break the Monopoly.

Several senators pressed the secretary of war for his opinion of the surest way to break up the Pacific Mail monopoly. He said that the surest way would be for the government to build up ships and operate them, but he would not say that such a course would be the wisest way. He said that the question was a legislative one and that he did not care to indorse government ownership.

"We sent for you to tell us what to do," said Chairman Flint. "That, I think, is what you would do if you were a senator."

Probably we have been trained in different political schools," said the secretary, "but I have never believed it was the duty of the government to furnish means of transportation. I have not believed it wise for the government to engage in that business, which can best be done by individuals."

Secretary Dickinson left the stand after saying that he would investigate the whole subject of mail contracts, chartering steamships, or any other means of meeting the situation.

IGNORES THE ORDER OF PRES. GEN. D. A. R.

Miss Agnes Gerald Reports for Work Although Given a Letter of Dismissal.

Washington, February 28.—Ignoring a letter of dismissal sent to her by Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Miss Agnes Gerald reported for work as usual at the headquarters of the society here today.

This Miss Gerald died upon the advice of her lawyer, who has intimated that he believes Mrs. Scott liable for damages in attempting to dismiss his client and that Mrs. Scott did not have the power to dismiss Miss Gerald.

Insubordination was the reason given by Mrs. Scott in her letter to Miss Gerald for the attempted ousting. Miss Gerald's mother is said to have campaigned for Mrs. Story, who was defeated at the last election for the president generalcy by Mrs. Scott.

UNITED STATES SENATOR PERCY.

Washington, February 28.—The credentials of LeRoy Percy, the newly-elected senator from Mississippi and successor to Senator Gordon, were presented to the senate today.

NO ARBITRATION TO STOP STRIKE OF 125,000 MEN

Philadelphia Street Car Directors Will Not Treat With the Strikers.

Philadelphia, February 28.—In spite of the constantly increasing demands by religious bodies and others that arbitration be resorted to, to settle the strike against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, officials of that company declared tonight that no proposition looking toward arbitration in any form is being considered by the board of directors.

There were very few disturbances along any of the lines of the company today and an increased number of cars left the various barns. Heavy rains which fell tonight kept the crowds from the streets, and the most complete after-dark schedule in effect since the strike began was run on all lines until midnight.

Many labor leaders still hope that public sympathy will force arbitration before the general strike voted for yesterday goes into effect on Saturday.

Many out-of-town labor organizations in the country are expected to reach here in time to participate in another meeting of labor chiefs, which will be held on Wednesday night.

It is possible that the general strike order may be changed at that meeting to become effective immediately in many trades.

Mayor Reyburn said tonight that the situation had materially improved during the day, and that he was confident the Rapid Transit Company and the men would get together for an amicable settlement if outsiders would leave well enough alone.

Men who report for work tomorrow, the mayor stated, will be taken back and will be subjected to no punishment. They must come as individuals, however, and will not be permitted to wear the union button.

Councils will meet Thursday when some course of action to end the strike will be taken.

C. O. Kruger, president of the Rapid Transit Company, said tonight:

"The company will not for a moment consider any proposal to arbitrate, no matter from what source. No influence that can possibly be brought to bear will change this decision."

Hoosier County Goes "Dry."

Bluffton, Ind., February 28.—The local option election in Wells county today resulted in a dry plurality of 1,570. Bluffton went dry by 81 votes.

SCHOOL BOARD PLANS ERECTION OF 11 BUILDINGS

Commissioners Discuss Disposition of $600,000 Bond Money.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR EACH WARD IN CITY

These Committees Will Secure Options on Sites and Report to the Board---Committee on Buildings Named ---- Atlanta Concerns to Do All the Work.

The school board yesterday at a special meeting began active work on the question of building of the new schools as provided by the $3,000,000 bond issue, $600,000 of which was for schools.

After much discussion, it was decided that a committee from each ward, consisting of the board member, the bond commissioner and the member of council from that particular ward, should investigate conditions in their territory and decide the most desirable location for the new school. They will then secure an option on a lot for the school. As soon as the committees are ready to report, the board is to assemble again, receive their reports and then let out contracts for the work.

Eight lots are to be bought and eleven school houses to be built. Three old schools will be remodeled.

In order to secure proper competition for these bids, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Rosser, Morgan and Mitchell, was appointed to confer with the Atlanta chapter of the American Institution of Architects and arrange a program of competition. All the work is to be done by Atlanta concerns.

In this wise the very best labor and design is to be secured and the work put under way as soon as possible.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS ARE "ABNORMALISTS"

They Are Home-Breakers, Not Home-Makers, Says Dr. Griesmer.

Baltimore, Md., February 28.—"Abnormalists" was the name given woman suffragists by the Rev. Dr. Henry S. Griesmer, pastor of Franklin Square Baptist church, and president of the Ministers' Union of the city, in a debate before the Baltimore Baptist Ministers' Association today on the question, "Ought Women to Have the Right to Suffrage." "When I say the suffragist is unnatural, I mean to use the word to designate something that she ought not be."

Tr Dr. Griesmer's mind, there are three great and uncontrovertible reasons why women should never have the ballot—it is unscriptural, unnatural and impolitic.

"The women who want the ballot are home-breakers and not home-makers," he declared. "Men who have such wives have my sympathy. To be harnessed up with such a woman would make life a burden and home a perdition."

Blocked by Immunity Plea.

Washington, February 28.—The supreme court of the United States today declined to vacate the order Justice Lurton issued Friday last, staying the trial of Charles R. Heike, a former official of the American Sugar Refining Company, until the supreme court reviews the decision of the circuit court for the southern district of New York in regard to his immunity plea. The court, however, took the matter under consideration, with the possibility that it may later vacate the order.

ATLANTA'S NEW POSTMASTER.

DEATH FOLLOWS IN FLOOD'S WAKE

Situation in State of Ohio Is Appalling.

Two Deaths Are Reported and Property Damage Totals Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars---In New York State Many Towns Under Water.

Cleveland, Ohio, February 28.—At least two dead, many hundreds homeless, scores of factories preparing to close down and property losses reaching into hundreds of thousands of dollars—these are themain results of the flood which has devastated the state of Ohio during the last two days and which has not yet reached its full volume.

The first death occurred here this afternoon, when four-year-old Catharine Hannan was swept off her feet by a block of ice swirling down the flooded Nine Mile creek.

The second fatality to be reported was at Youngstown, where a boy named Howard Lightbody was drowned.

From all parts of the state come stories of submerged villages, whole counties under water and people being driven from their falling homes. At Elkton the Beaver creek has completely flooded the town and there are several feet of water in the main street. Canton is in almost as bad a plight and the majority of the population is marooned in the upper stories of their houses.

From an industrial point of view the most ominous intelligence comes from East Liverpool, where the potteries which support hundreds of workmen are preparing to close down. Similar news is sent by Youngstown in respect to its great steel plants.

At Zanesville five hundred houses are reported under water. All service on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad between Zanesville and Newark has been suspended.

WAR ON POST CARDS THAT RIDICULE IRISH

Crusade Started by Leading Irishmen Living at the National Capital.

Washington, February 28.—Souvenior post cards which ridicule the Irish race are to be waged war upon, some of the leading Irishmen of the national capital having started the crusade. Efforts will be made to have the post-office department hold them up as unmailable. F. J. Haltigan, editor of The National Hibernian, declared today that it is against the law to use the mails in defamation of private or public characters. The Ancient Order of Hibernians will invoke the aid of the government, he said, "to abolish this nefarious practice."

WOMEN'S LONG HAT PINS, THREATENED BY COUNCIL, ARE DEFENDED BY WOMEN

Chicago, February 28.—Chicago's city council tonight formally took up and deliberated upon the following questions:

"Are women's long hat pins, which menace the noses, eyes and faces of other people, a public nuisance?"

Ought women despite the danger of hat pins to be allowed to wear them for self-protection?"

Alderman Herman J. Bauler introduced an order requiring the corporation counsel to draw up an ordinance restricting the length of hat pins worn in public places.

"We have an ordinance prohibiting the wearing of large hats in theaters," declared Alderman Bauler. "I am going to teach the women of Chicago that they must stop wearing hat pins a foot and a half long. Some of the pins stick five or six inches beyond the brims of their hats."

Grave silence hovered over a delegation of women crowded in the galleries. Then a female voice piped out:

"Doesn't your wife wear long hat pins?"

"No. You bet she don't—she wouldn't do such a thing," shouted Alderman Bauler. "Oh, you women of Chicago, don't you ever consider when you get into a street car with your long hat pins that you are endangering the faces of we men?"

The women, however, had prepared an answer, for as soon as the alderman sat down, the city clerk arose and read a letter which was spread on the council minutes. The letter was signed by Maye E. Davis, and read:

"On behalf of myself and thousands of other women in Chicago who are occasionally on the streets after dark, I want to express an objection against the proposition to curtail the use of hat pins.

"A hat pin is a woman's weapon of defense. She is no more permitted to carry a revolver or other weapon than is a member of the sterner sex. I always feel safe going home at night with a hat pin available. Before leaving a street car I always get a hat pin ready in my hands until I am safe within the door of my home. Many a time it has proved its need. Thousands of other women can speak from their own experience of how a stout hat pin has been an effective defense in time of danger."

The council chamber rang with applause from the women's gallery, and after Mayor Busse had pounded his gavel and shouted "Order, Order," Alderman Bauler's resolution was referred to a committee.

IN PRISON FIFTEEN YEARS, ENJOYS FIRST AUTO RIDE AND SEES VAUDEVILLE SHOW

"It has been the pleasantest day of my life."

The words were simple, some might call them bromidic, but the circumstances behind them and the feeling that prompted them came near bringing the tears to the eyes of all that heard.

The speaker was Thomas Taylor, once a star in the National League, and for fifteen years an inmate of federal prisons, who had just been released from the prison at Atlanta by a pardon, granted by President Taft, on the petition of the greatest ball players of the present day.

He Killed His Love.

One day, years ago, Taylor killed his wife in Washington. He had believed her unfaithful, and, mad with rage, he had taken vengeance into his own hands. He had been tried and sentenced and sent to prison. When the Atlanta prison was opened, he had been transferred here. He had been put in the dispensary department, and in the weary years, during which he had been shut out from the world, he had become an expert pharmacist.

He had taken full advantage of the opportunities prison life had offered. Stone walls and iron bars had failed to deaden life within him, had not succeeded in sapping the kindly instinct, had merely brought to the surface the desire to help others.

When a smallpox epidemic had broken out in the prison, he had volunteered to take care of the ill, and through the course of their disease he had acted as doctor and nurse. When other epidemics raged he was ever at his post of duty, ever willing to do what he could for those who were suffering. Love for his fellow being, scorn of danger, true moral courage, these were the virtues this man showed.

Ball Players Work for Him.

Over a year ago the ball players of America, headed by Kid Elberfeld, of the Highlanders, started a petition for his pardon. The paper was signed by the best known stars in the country; it had the sanction of Ban Johnson and Harry Pulliam. When it was presented to the president, it was backed up by a report of exemplary conduct and brave service in the federal prison.

The president considered it, signed his name to the paper, and Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock Warden Moyer signed the necessary papers and Taylor doffed his prison stripes forever.

At the federal prison all officers and convicts were happy over his release. All had a glad word for him. In the warden's office he was warmly greeted. He was given a new suit, a ticket to Washington, D. C., and $5.

Then he was conducted to the prison gates and for the first time in fifteen years, drank clean, fresh air, a free man. To him the world was open.

"It's good to be free," that was all he said then.

First Ride in Auto.

He was brought to Atlanta by Dr. Al Fowler, in an automobile. "It was the first time in my life I ever rode in a machine," he said later on at night. "When I went to prison there were no autos."

In 15 years many a change had been made. Fifteen years ago, or in fact even upon his arrival in Atlanta, when the federal prison opened, this city would have hardly recognized itself in the Atlanta of today.

"Where do you want to go, Tom," he was asked after he reached the city and had been greeted by an ex-official

WAR TO KNIFE ON THE LORDS BY LIBERALS

Premier Asquith Stakes Existence of Ministry on Reforming Upper House.

BUOGET IS SIDETRACKED FOR FIGHT ON THE PEERS

Premier Announces That Government Proposes to Deprive Lords of Veto Power, Leaving Only Functions of Delay and Discussion---Hereditary Principle to Be Abolished.

London, February 28.—In the session of the house of commons today, the outcome of which was awaited as eagerly as the denouement of a most exciting tragedy by all the members of both houses able to pack themselves into the chamber, Premier Asquith's government obtained a lease of life until after Easter.

Gift of Conservatives.

This was the gift of the conservatives, who were so anxious to avoid two general elections within so brief a period that they accepted the premier's program without calling for a vote.

When the house of commons meets after Easter, it will take up the struggle to revolutionize the British government system. Resolutions will be presented to deprive the house of lords of all authority over finance and also of the power of vetoing the measures of the lower house, leaving to the lords only the functions of delay and discussion.

If this plan succeeds, the government proposes next year to proceed with the transformation of the house of lords from a hereditary to a democratic body.

Budget Is Sidetracked.

Such was the program that the prime minister unfolded, and he and Chancellor Lloyd-George declared that the government staked its existence on it. In the meantime, the budget stands sidetracked.

Before the Easter adjournment the house of commons will deal with resolutions enabling the government to continue to borrow money and the appropriation bills for the army, navy and other departments.

Mr. Asquith's plan gained the support of the advanced radicals and laborites, who have been wavering, with the result that the government later in the evening had majorities of 91 and 95, respectively, against two proposed amendments to Mr. Asquith's resolution. The Irish members had withdrawn from the house for a discussion of the policy when the program was accepted. They had, however, decided to refrain from voting.

Financial Business First.

The premier's motion, giving government business precedence of every sitting up to March 24, was adopted without division. In laying down the government's program, Mr. Asquith emphasized the necessity of proceeding with financial business first, and he said that after that would come the question of reforming the house of lords.

The financial legislation, he declared, would be confined to the army and navy bills and other urgent demands which would occupy the whole attention of the house up to the Easter adjournment.

With regard to the house of lords, he hoped that chamber would agree with the proposed plan, but whether it did or not, the government intended to place on the statute books a provision which would set free the house of commons from the veto of the lords.

Telling Speech by Lloyd-George.

Chancellor Lloyd-George, in a telling speech, declared that the government could not ask for the exercise of the royal prerogative upon proposals which had not yet received the sanction of

LOW-GRADE MEDICAL SCHOOLS FLOODING THE UNITED STATES WITH LOW-GRADE PHYSICIANS

—President H. S. Pritchett

Chicago, February 28.—"The United States supports too many physicians. While Europe maintains the proportion of one physician to every 1,500 people, the United States has a physician for every 568. This over-production is due to our too-numerous low-grade medical schools and to the laxity of our laws governing them. It is time that the country adopt means to relieve itself of this burden."

Henry S. Pritchett, of New York, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of Teaching, made this assertion in an address today before the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association.

"We have in this country," he continued, "about 150 medical schools, or more than are to be found in the whole of Europe. Each of our schools in the last ten years has graduated so many physicians and surgeons that the over-production has become enormous. We have twice as many physicians per 100,000 of people as England, four times as many as France and five times as many as Germany.

"Our low-grade medical schools, sanctioned by our lax laws, are largely responsible. It is admitted that the training of doctors in the low-grade schools is poor, but it is constantly asserted that these doctors are needed for the rural districts. The assumption is that graduates of the medical schools connected with the universities will not go into the rural fields. This assumption is false. Our investigations show us that our more-expensively trained doctors go into the country just as the poorly trained doctors do. The Johns Hopkins University graduates have gone into 32 states and territories. This shows they do not all congregate in the big cities.

"Another argument which has been advanced in behalf of the low-grade school is that in favor of the poor boy. This argument is based not upon consideration for the poor boy and still less upon consideration for the public, but upon the desire to run a medical school. The truth is that the medical education which the poor boy has to pay for will cost him just as much as for something better. A four-years' medical education in the Chicago, Baltimore or Philadelphia schools costs more than a six-years' course at Ann Arbor, or about the same as at the University of Minnesota, at Minneapolis. The highly-trained graduate of Ann Arbor or Minnesota will go forth better equipped than the graduate of the so-called poor boy's school and with no more expense."

Mr. Pritchett appealed for a change in conditions which would lessen the "output of low-grade doctors."

LENT AND HIGH PRICES DROVE HIM TO SUICIDE

St. Louis, February 28.—The high price he was forced to pay for his meat, together with the loss of trade, through Lent, caused Alexander Bindebeutel, a butcher, to kill himself today. His body was found in the ice box of his shop.

TO FIGHT ENEMIES OF GEORGIA PEACH

Barnesville, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—A. O. and Tom S. Murphy, large peach growers of this city, have induced the bureau of plant industry and entomology, at Washington, to establish here an experimental and demonstration station for the purpose of showing the fruit growers how to control the two deadly enemies of the peach industry, namely, curculio and brown rot.

For some time they have corresponded with the authorities at Washington and succeeded in getting the department to send representatives here to look into the situation. During the coming season each of these departments will have a representative in the peach belt of this vicinity. A building on Greenwood street has already been rented by the government and the necessary apparatus will be installed at once. Mr. W. M. Scott, of the bureau of plant industry, and Mr. A. L. Quaintance, of the bureau of entomology, will be in charge of the station.

EXPECT PEACHES TO BLOOM IN WEEK

Americus, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—Another week of continued warm weather and peach orchards throughout southwest Georgia will be in full bloom. There are half a million bearing trees in the territory immediate to Americus, and already in several large orchards buds are putting forth and will bloom this week.

Orchard owners here discussing the crop prospect today express hope that the trees will escape possible late freeze and that abundant yield is assured.

Negro Farmer Shot.

Albany, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—In Baker county late Saturday night Joseph Reese, a negro farmer, heard a commotion in his stable and went out to investigate. As he approached the stable door he was shot down and died an hour after. Before his death Reese declared that he was shot by Dan Lilly and Sonnie Smith, whom he declared he recognized. The coroner's jury, after considering the case, ordered Smith and Lilly held for the grand jury, and they are in jail at Newton.

A Nut for Someone to Crack.

Why do people who do not eat pork as meat continue to use it in the form of lard? Lard is just as indigestible as pork. In a recent article on cooking fats, Dr. Paige Emery, the eminent specialist, writes as follows:

"The healthful and economical solution of the cooking fat problem is the use of Cottolene. Cottolene is purely a vegetable product, is easily assimilated, and aids digestion. Dietetic experiments have shown conclusively that when a vegetable oil is used in cooking in preference to animal fat, it is more easily assimilated and yields far more nourishment to the body."

Cottolene is sold only in sealed pails, of special design, which keep it sweet and fresh indefinitely.

NO EXEMPTION FOR COMPANIES

That home insurance companies are not exempt for city, state, or county taxes, was the decision handed down yesterday by the supreme court in the case of Georgia Fire Insurance Company vs. the City of Cedartown. This decision will strike consternation in the hearts of the insurance people, for they have enjoyed the privileges of tax immunity for 25 years.

The Georgia Fire Insurance Company attempted to secure an order of the court enjoining the city of Cedartown from levying municipal taxes upon their property.

Their contention was that in the first place their chief office was in the home of Walter S. Coleman, the treasurer, which was outside the city limits. All their operations, however, were in the city. Their second contention was that under the act of the general assembly of 1907, which says that "insurance companies shall pay a tax of 1 per cent per annum on their gross income from premiums and other receipts in lieu of all other taxes," they were exempt.

Judge Freeman, of the Tallapoosa circuit, heard the case and refused to issue the injunction. Immediately the case was appealed.

In sustaining the lower court Judge Lumpkin wrote as follows:

"The provisions of that section (section 6) of the general tax act are not as clear as they might be. But whatever may have been the original intent of the main body of that section, it was declared by a proviso which was added thereto, not to work any exemption of property from taxation. Classification of property for purposes of taxation is not permitted in this state. The property of one person must be taxed like that of another. Property is simply property and must bear its share of the proportionate burden, according to its value, regardless of contentions to the contrary, whether they come from what is called an 'infant industry' or from an 'industrial giant.'"

24 LIVES TAKEN BY SNOW SLIDES

Two Mining Towns in Idaho Are Whelmed.

More Lives Would Have Been Lost but for Bravery of Man Who Roused the Sleeping Inhabitants---Towns Buried Under Mass of Snow and Earth.

Spokane, Wash., February 28.—Twenty-three are known to be dead as the result of the snow slides yesterday and today in the mining district of northern Idaho.

To the eighteen known to have perished in the snow slides at Mace and Burke, Idaho, last night and this morning, are added two more who died in a similar district about noon yesterday when the camp of the Carbonate Hill Mining Company at Mullan, Idaho, was destroyed. Two more were killed at Dorsey, Idaho, late this afternoon.

Rescuers Dug for Many Hours.

The rescuers have dug for many hours. Every available able-bodied man has been pressed into service, old men and boys joining the rescue forces. Mace is situated on the creek bed and the mountains rise high on either side of the town. The main body of the avalanche which started from the top of Custer mountain passed beyond the town and, striking the opposite slope with terrific force, rushed up to the opposite mountain side. The canyon is filled to a depth of from 40 to 50 feet.

He Woke Sleeping People.

The first slide, which almost wiped out the town of Mace, occurred at 10:45 o'clock Sunday night, while all except the men on the night shift in the mine were sleeping. The Burke avalanche occurred at 5:30 o'clock this morning. That more lives were not lost at Burke is due to Seamans Row, foreman of the Hecla mine. Realizing the danger that threatened the sleeping citizens of the town a mile further up the stream, he sent Bert Clement to Burke to arouse the inhabitants and urge them to seek safety.

Four of those who lost their lives at Burke were members of the rescue party that had been at work at night at Mace.

TAKES SPECIAL TRAIN TO SEE DYING CHILD

Waycross, Ga., February 28.—Pushing toward Nashville, Tenn., where his daughter, Miss Lena Hollomon, is dying at a girls' school, J. A. GORDON TAKES SENATORS TO SEE "GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, February 28.—(Special)—Such a gathering of officialdom witnessed the performance of "The Gentleman From Mississippi," at the theater tonight as guests of the junior senator from Mississippi, Colonel James Gordon, as is not often brought together at a theatrical offering, even in Washington.

The president of the United States and a family party occupied a box, and four-score members of the senate, accompanied by their wives, had seats in the main body of the theater.

Nearly all the senators, many of them accompanied by their wives, had seats in the main body of the theater.

At the end of the third act, Colonel Gordon was given a genuine ovation. Mr. Wise, who was playing the part of "A Gentleman From Mississippi," referred to him in his curtain speech and the demonstration followed. The orchestra played "Dixe," but Colonel Gordon only bowed his appreciation from his seat in the orchestra.

Senators Bacon and Clay, of Georgia, were present, and Representatives Lee and Hughes.

The distinguished party was the outcome of a visit of Senator Gordon to a performance in Philadelphia. He returned to Washington and asked all his colleagues to see the show as his guests, explaining there were incidents in it which reminded him of his own history. Ten years ago Colonel Gordon, a southern aristocrat then as now, was driving a milk wagon on the streets of Okolona, Miss., having seen a tremendous fortune dissipated. In December he realized the ambition of 71 years, and became a senator of the United States.

Fifty years ago he kept open house on his plantation, and entertained guests from New York and Boston. So the part of a host is not a new one to the quaint and lovable southerner.

Asked today if he would occupy a box at the production tonight, he said, "Of course I wouldn't do that. It wouldn't be just right, you see, for me to sit in a box and have my guests sitting on ordinary seats."

BLODGETT IS OUT; HUGH M'KEE IN

At midnight last night Hugh McKee, who has been cashier at the postoffice for some years past, became postmaster, and E. F. Blodgett, who has been postmaster for twelve years, became assistant.

The transfer to Mr. McKee, the new postmaster, by Mr. Blodgett, who has been in the service so many years, was accomplished late at night when the official receipts were filed showing the property of the government the retiring postmaster had surrendered to his successor. The work was quiet and easy. During the past week or ten days the clerical force had been ascertaining the government stock in Postmaster Blodgett's keeping—that stock being composed of stamps, stamped envelopes, money on hand, stationery and other supplies.

For the complete inventory with which the retiring postmaster had been charged by the postmaster general the new postmaster gave his receipt and the transfer was completed.

Five Long Seismic Shocks.

St. Louis, Mo., February 28.—Five long earthquake shocks were recorded by the seismograph at St. Louis University this afternoon, commencing at 3:30:45 and continuing until 3:48:10 o'clock. The shocks were long and slow, being from east to west, according to Father Goesse, the university astronomer, and portend, in his estimation, a severe shock later in the extreme southwestern portion of the globe.

TAYLOR FREED BY PRESIDENT

of the prison, who still has a warm place in his heart for the prisoners.

"I want to see a theater, once more," he said. "I want to see Hugh Cardoza and Jake Mathiessen." Cardoza and Mathiessen have been welcome visitors at the prison for several years, twice a year going to that institution with Orpheum acts to give the prisoners an entertainment, a rift in the monotony of prison life.

He was taken to the Orpheum theater, and the best seat in the house was given him.

And he saw a rattling good bill, and enjoyed it to the limit. Few of those around him knew who the silent, attentive man was, but all noticed the intentness of his attention, and the pleasure he gained from every act.

His First Moving Pictures.

When the moving pictures came on he got up to leave. "Wait a minute," he was told, and then came his startled: "What is that?" When the pictures began flashing on the surface of the canvas, he was all wonderment. "They didn't have those when I went out of the world," he half murmured. Seeing his interest, the manager of the theater conducted him to the gallery, and to the operator of the pictures, and there he waited watching every movement, joying in every sensation. He is of a mechanical turn of mind, and the moving picture machine meant to him far more than the mere picture it presented.

At 10:30 o'clock he was conducted to a soda water fountain, and, surrounded by a jolly party, had a farewell drink.

He shook hands with the former government official, with Hugh Cardoza, with Jake Matthiessen, with several others, and with a sigh of content, as if he found it hard to go away, he left the theater.

"Oh, such a pleasant evening" those were the last words he uttered.

At the Warden's Home.

He spent the night at the home of Warden Moyer as his guest. At noon today he leaves for Washington, where he will try to get a position as a pharmacist.

He is too old now for baseball. He looks a man of 50, silent, quietly dressed. One of those sort of people who will not add much to the general enjoyment of a party, except in that he is a good listener. To the full he will enjoy everything.

But for the present freedom is too new to him for expression. All he can do is to feel strong, feel deeply, the pleasure and the wonder of being free.

Before his death he charged the woman's father with shooting him with his (Fuller's) gun, which he left on a table in the house, and which was passed out of the door by the woman.

PLAN NEW HOTEL FOR CENTRAL CITY

Eight-Story Structure to Be Built on Huff Property.

Brown House, Macon, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—That hotel for the Central City is up again. This time plans have been drawn, brick has been bought and a large lot of the material to be used in the construction of an eight-story structure on the Huff property, corner of Fourth and Cherry streets, has been contracted for. It will be a modern commercial hotel with 240 rooms and an excellent arrangement for a large business.

This is the announcement which comes today as a result of business planning that has been done by Walter Dannenberg and I. Block, who recently bought the splendid corner lot from the Huff estate. This proposition is, according to the best indications, more than a dream. The active construction will not be delayed further than till June 1 at the longest time. Frank R. Happ has been busy with the plans for this hotel several months.

HE SWEARS WIFE SWORE TO A LIE

Perjury Alleged in Murder Trial of Dr. Fritch.

Husband of Mrs. Knott, Who Appeared as Witness for Dr. Fritch, Swears That His Wife Was Paid to Perjure Herself.

Detroit, Mich., February 28.—Frank M. Knott, husband of the leading witness for the defense in the Fritch trial, on the witness stand today branded all of his wife's testimony in behalf of Dr. Fritch as false.

Mrs. Knott swore that she was in Dr. George A. Fritch's office on the afternoon of last August 27, when the doctor is alleged to have administered fatal treatment to Maybelle Millman, of Ann Arbor, but said she saw no one answering the description of the dead girl.

During Mrs. Knott's testimony her husband appealed to the judge to stop the case, declaring his wife's statement constituted perjury. Today the prosecution called him in rebuttal. Asked if he knew of his wife being in the doctor's office on August 27, he replied:

"I know she was not there."

In answer to other questions, the witness said:

"About a month ago she told me there was $520 in it for me if I would testify for Fritch in this trial. I laughed and told her I could not tell anything, because I was east at this time. She said she was going on the stand and would get $200, and if I would keep my mouth shut she would give me $150 of it. I told her not to perjure herself, and she said with a smile: 'That's all right. There's lots of others doing the same thing.'"

Dr. Fritch was called to repudiate a statement of one of the state's witnesses to the effect that he had given Mrs. Ida Putzig a check for $32 to appear in his behalf. He denied it, and then added that he never wrote checks to anyone because his only bank account is a savings account.

Each side rested its case today.

The Macon and Birmingham has been in the hands of a receiver two years, but is considered valuable property and the prospective purchasers, it is stated, are so situated as to make it a still more useful line.

Extremely Chic Are These Spring Suits For Misses and Small Women

It used to be the bane of a school girl's life to get a coat suit. She either had to have it made to order or else have a woman's suit cut down. Both these plans were eminently unsatisfactory.

Now, however, all she has to do is come here and find just exactly her size. Sometimes she doesn't even have to have it altered.

Our Suits and separate Skirts for misses and small women are especially good this season. The new fabrics and fashions and colors are all here. They range in price from $17.50 to $45.

A great many of the coats are plainly tailored models, rather short. Some have trimming of moire or satin on collar and cuffs. Some show braided designs. The linings are generally self-color silk or satin or a changeable silk in harmonizing tones.

The skirts are pleated, either all around or in groups. Some have overskirts or tunic folds over pleated kilts.

The Russian Blouse style is largely favored in misses' suits. We have some very effective models in these. One, for instance, is of tan serge suiting. The coat has a long, rolling collar fastening at the waistline with one large button. The coat is a cutaway style and is trimmed with braid motifs. The collar and cuffs are faced with moire in self-color. The skirt has a plain center panel, and an overskirt with a broad stitcht edge falls over a pleated kilt.

We also have this Russian model in coral, wistaria and blue, with collar and cuff facings of black moire.

Shepherd checks in various sizes, rough and hard finisht serges, basket weaves, hopsacking, Bedford cords and diagonals are all very good fabrics for spring wear. Colors are lighter, of course, than for winter wear. Grays and tans, blues and mixtures are the favorites, tho the lighter, softer, solid tones are still very popular.

Come in to see these Suits. Try them on, if you like. We'll be glad to show you and doubly glad to sell you.

ALBANY TO MAKE STRONG PULL FOR ROAD

Big Delegation of Business Men to Go to Ashburn Today.

Albany, Ga., February 28.—(Special.) A delegation of Albany business men, headed by Mayor Tift, will go over to Ashburn tomorrow to participate in a meeting to be held in the interest of the proposed and very probable extension of the F., O. and B. railroad, now nearly into Ashburn from the east, to a point west of that city.

Albany appears to be favored for the objective point of the road's extension, but Americus is making a strong pull for the line, and will also have a delegation at Ashburn. An interesting feature of the situation is the fact that the right-of-way of the old Brisbane road, so called for the man who promoted it forty years ago, is fully graded a considerable part of the distance which the new road would take in coming to Albany from Ashburn. The road was abandoned after being made ready to receive the rails, and the right-of-way has never been utilized.

PLAN FOR MARKING ATLANTA BATTLEFIELDS

Colonel Livingston Will Push Bill Before the House Committee.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, February 28.—(Special.)—Colonel Livingston will appear for the second time before the committee on military affairs of the house tomorrow, and urge his bill appropriating $2,000 to provide for marking the battlefields around Atlanta. He has maps, histories and statistics which he will present to the committee.

In discussing the battlefields around Atlanta Colonel Livingston today said he witnessed the death of both General James B. McPherson and General W. H. T. Walker. He gave a realistic account of each tragedy, and recalled vividly the desperate attack of the union soldiers when they learned that General McPherson, whom they loved and revered, had been killed.

ABOUT GOLD STRIKE AT WIMBERLY, NEVADA

Value Was Underestimated in Article Published in Sunday's Constitution.

Editor Constitution: I beg to call your attention to a typographical error in an article published in the Sunday edition of your paper, asking that you please make correction. The original letter gives this as from $100 to $300,000 to the ton. Very respectfully,

MARVIN JONES.

Returning home from a visit Saturday the two made coffee as is their custom. After drinking it they found a white sediment in their cups. Both shortly became unconscious. A chemist is analyzing the sediment. No motive for a crime is known.

Suspended for Balance of Jacksonville Meeting.

Starter Brown Says He Believes Troxler Has Been the Tool for Gamblers---Track Was a Quagmire and Racing Was Uninteresting.

Jacksonville, Fla., February 28.—For persistently attempting to prejudge the start in the day's opener, Jockey Roscoe Troxler was set down for the balance of the meeting by Starter Brown. In explaining the ruling, Brown stated that Troxler's offense was an aggravated one.

"In getting rid of Troxler, I believe I removed a tool for a certain betting corporation. These people have done much around here, and unless I am greatly mistaken, I will land the balance ere the meeting is many days older."

Recent heavy rains converted the track at Moncrief into a veritable quagmire and, as a result, racing today was of the uninteresting variety. Summary:

ESSAY CONTEST CLOSES TODAY

Which Player on a Team Is Considered the Best?

The last call has sounded. Today the essay contest will close. Tonight's mail will bring the last of the essays in to the essay editor, and on the following day the winners will be announced and the winning essays printed.

This contest has been running since the last day of January and it has proven one of the most successful contests that any southern newspaper has ever run. It has been a contest of brains, not guesswork. The contestants had to know something about the great national pastime before they could hope to win a prize.

For the last time and for the benefit of those who may want to enter the contest at the eleventh hour, the nature of the contest will be explained once more.

The contest is for the person who gives, in 300 words, his reasons for picking a certain position of a baseball team as the most important to the team in winning games. Whether he picks the postion that is the most vital or not, matters not. The person who gives the best reasons for his choice whether he pick the catcher, the pitcher, the shortstop, the second baseman or what not, will win the first prize.

There are six prizes offered for the successful contestants. The first prize is a season pass to every game played at Ponce de Leon this season. The second and third prizes are two tickets to the opening game of the season. The fourth, fifth and sixth prizes are one ticket to the closing game of the opening series of the season.

The rules of the contest are: Write on one side of the paper only. Sign your full name and address. Keep all essays within the required limit of 300 words. Every one is eligible except an employee of The Constitution, and every contestant can write just as many essays as he sees fit.

Dick Jemison is sole judge of the contest. He is giving the second and third prizes, and President Heisman is giving the others.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE TO HAVE GOOD TEAM

Several Ex-College Stars Are Now Members of the School.

Saturday, an enthusiastic meeting was held at the Atlanta School of Medicine at which plans were formulated for putting a successful team in the field.

The necessary funds have been practically raised for first-class equipment.

The college boasts of a number of ex-college stars; among whom are Redfearn, the star twirler of the University of Georgia, for the past two seasons; "Dick" Richards, "the boy wonder" of Mercer University for the past two seasons; also Tom Fleming, a Mercer varsity man. Besides these are McCown and Edmundson, of Emory; Carter, of Georgia Military College; Buford, of Cartersville, a southpaw, who bids fair to be a topnotcher.

Among other promising candidates are Lancaster, Rainey, Lawson, Batson, Rawlins, Reavis, Lyons, Deemor, Stokes, Johnson, Henry, Weathers, Wagnon, Heaton and Coleman.

It is needless to say with such a nucleus to build to, the Atlanta School of Medicine will be heard from later in the season. The first practice was held Saturday afternoon.

Following officers have been elected: Reavis, manager; Richards, captain; Henry, secretary and treasurer; Redfearn, coach.

Manager Reavis is anxious to schedule games with any amateur or college team in this section. Address all communications to Manager Reavis, care Atlanta School of Medicine.

MARIST COLLEGE NINE TO START PRACTICE

Baseball practice has been interrupted somewhat at Marist College as a result of recent rains, but with the clearing of the weather Coach Joe Bean contemplates giving the youthful aspirants a bunch of work to do.

At the present time about fourteen men have enrolled as candidates. This number includes Jim and George Harrison, Griffin, Harry and Carl Smith, O'Keefe, Falvey, who is the mainstay on the slab; Brannen, Hightower and Sloan.

Practically every one of last year's men will be returned, Reed being the only missing regular, and prospects for a good team are exceptionally bright.

Last year Marist turned out one of the best prep teams in the city, the fight for the local prep pennant centering between Marist and the Boys' High School nine, and friends and students of the Ivy street school confidently believe that this year's team will be even better than its predecessor.

Glenn H. Curtiss, Charles K. Hamilton and Will M. Willard are among those under contract. B. L. Davis, who promoted and managed the meet at Los Angeles, Cal., is in charge of arrangements here. The flights will be made from the old Montgomery Park race track, where conditions will permit of trials of speed between airships and motor vehicles.

DOBSON WILL COACH CLEMSON

Well-Known Athletic Director Gets Good Position.

Frank Dobson, formerly assistant coach at Tech, and at present athletic director at Stone Mountain, has been signed by Clemson college, to take charge of all branches of athletics at that institution.

Dobson is peculiarly fitted for such a position as this, for he not only is a thorough student of every game in which the college lads will be interested, but he is one of those kind of men that parents would like to have their boy associated with.

To describe Dobson fitly would take worlds of space. Suffice it to say that he is a gentleman under any conditions. That is the best one could say about anyone.

Clemson is to be congratulated on securing him for their coach, and Dobson is to be congratulated on securing such a good position—a position for which he is fitted and one where he will be perfectly at home and be appreciated fully.

FIRST CONTEST ON SATURDAY

Athletic Colts Play Tech Nine at Ponce de Leon.

Saturday afternoon, at Ponce de Leon park, the first baseball game of the season will take place, when the Philadelphia Colts and the Tech Yellow Jackets line up against one another.

This is going to be some game, too, for the Jackets have been practicing for some time, while the Colts will only be working out a few days. This will be a fullfledged exhibition game, and as it is the first one, the fans are liable to turn out in force for this occasion.

JACKSON WANTS TO PLAY HERE

By J. Stuart Price.

Greenville, S. C., February 28.—(Special.)—If Joe Jackson has his way with Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Americans, the hard-hitting outfielder will play with Atlanta this year.

When seen here today by The Constitution's correspondent in regard to his being sent to the Southern League for one more year's work in the minor league, Jackson said.

"Mr. Mack wrote me the other day that the Athletics would either train in Rockingham, N. C., or Atlanta, and he asked could I report in shape to play with New Orleans. It doesn't make any difference to me, if he sends me to the minors, where I play, but if possible, I am going to make him send me to Atlanta, as I am afraid of the New Orleans climate. I am getting into shape, and the way I am hammering that pill these warm afternoons is a shame.

Jackson got his first professional league experience when he joined the Greenville club in the Carolina Association in 1908. In 87 games with the locals he batted at a clip of .346. He was at bat 347 times and secured 120 hits. He scored 43 runs.

He was purchased by the Athletics before the Carolina Association season ended for $900.

BATTLE HILL TEAM HAS REORGANIZED

The strong Battle Hill baseball club has again reorganized, and is now ready to meet all comers, either in or out of the city.

Charles Vittur, Jr., has been elected manager, and "Billy" Eubanks has been elected captain.

So far twenty-two men have applied for try-outs, as follows: Catcher, Clarke, Sitton, Corrie; pitcher, Baxter, Baker, Thompson, Blair, Oppenheim; first base, Echols; second base, Vittur, Manning; shortstop, Crane, B. White; third base, Eubanks (captain); left field, Paschal, Terrell, Wilson; center field, Parker, J. White, Graham; right field, Pack, Stewart.

Manager Vittur says he is going to have a great team this season, and hopes to equal the record of the team of 1908. Practice games have been arranged with several teams in the city for the month of March.

All men who desire to try for positions on the team can get a thorough try-out by calling Charles Vittur, Jr., Bell phone 4387-J Main, or Atlanta phone 4387. The uniforms this year will be brown, trimmed in white, with monogram on each sleeve.

PRESIDENT JOYNER SIGNS CONNORS

AERONAUTS TRY FOR LAHM TROPHY

Harmon and Harrison Ascend at San Antonio.

They Are in the Balloon "New York" and Hope to Break All Records for Distance and Win the Lahm Trophy---Air Conditions Were Ideal.

San Antonio, Texas, February 28.—Clifford B. Harmon, of New York, and George B. Harrison, of Los Angeles, started at 9:15 o'clock tonight in the balloon "New York", on a trip which they hope will result in breaking all records for long distance and win the Lahm trophy, an international cup, now held by Count de La Vauz, of Paris, France.

Conditions were ideal. The wind was blowing gently from the south at the rate of 15 or 20 miles an hour and as the balloon sailed gracefully over the heads of the crowd it was headed northwest.

The balloon gradually rose as it sailed over the city and when it disappeared over West End it had reached an elevation estimated at 1,500 feet. Efforts will be made to keep the balloon at about 2,000 feet, as it is believed the air currents at that elevation will keep the big gas bag moving at a rate of from 25 to 35 miles. At that rate the balloon will have to remain in the air forty-eight hours to break the long distance record, which is now a little less than 1,200 miles.

The balloonists estimate that they are prepared to remain in the air seventy-two hours. The balloon is carrying 80,000 cubic feet of gas.

At the rate the balloon was traveling it will be some time tomorrow afternoon before it passes over the Texas state line. It will probably be in the neighborhood of Fort Worth and Dallas about 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Train Goes Into Ditch.

Newport, Ark., February 28.—Eastbound Rock Island passenger train No. 218 went into the ditch two miles east of here today as the result of a broken rail. Forty persons were in the cars ditched, but only a few were slightly hurt. J. Watson, of Albert Lea, Minn., was among those bruised.

MONROE BOOKS CLASSY CARD

Twenty-two rounds of classy boxing, divided into three bouts, a preliminary of four rounds, a semi-wind up of eight rounds and a main bout of ten rounds, is the attraction for the Monroe Athletic Club in the Steiner-Emery building, on Viaduct place, tomorrow night.

The card, as it now stands, looks something like this:

Kid Sills v. Kid Foster, four rounds.

Billy Kerr v. George Donlea, eight rounds.

Jerry Murphy v. Young Evans, ten rounds.

There is a classy bunch of boys for you, six lads of known ability. The four first named have already shown Atlanta fans what they can do boxing, as they are matched now, on previous occasions. Murphy is also known here by virtue of a recent winning at the Armory hall.

Murphy does not need an introduction to those who saw him in action in his only mill here, but to the others, suffice it to say that he is one of the cleverest lightweights that ever drew on a glove, a sparring partner formerly of Battling Nelson, a boy with a thorough knowledge of the game, quick, aggressive and carrying a good wallop in each hand.

Evans is a different type of boxer. This lad loves to wade in, taking all the blows that his opponent hands out and then slip across his favorite wallop and bring home the winning. Evans has a body punch that is a peach.

MACK'S COLTS HERE TODAY

Just before the setting of today's sun Connie Mack and his Philadelphia youngsters will roll into Atlanta, rush for the hotel, clean up a bit and then parade about the streets taking in the sights.

Bright and early Wednesday morning they will hike for Ponce de Leon park to take their first work-out of the season, that is, weather permitting.

In the party will be several promising youngsters. Tommy Atkins, who was with the Crackers last season, will be welcomed by the local fans. Then there will be Wilbur Goode, the young outfielder secured from Cleveland; Joe Jackson, the leader of the Sally League in batting, who wants to play with Atlanta; McInnes and Ben Houser, two native Philadelphians; Amos Strunk, another candidate for the outfield; Egan and Kummer, two promising young catchers, and a host of others.

They will get right to work and will try to get into shape by Saturday, when they play Tech and get in better shape by the time Captain Davis and the veterans arrive ten days later.

Arrested for Car-Breaking.

Barnesville, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—Chief Marshal Stocks filled the city jail today with negroes charged with breaking open a Central car last night and taking therefrom about thirty sacks of flour. One negro, arrested as a suspect, gave the names of a number of others, who participated in the affair and the marshal got busy, resulting in a full house before night. The trial will occur tomorrow.

THEATERS

Mabel Taliaferro.

A very widespread interest is being manifested among local theatergoers in the forthcoming engagement of Mabel Taliaferro in Edward Peple's new play, "The Call of the Cricket," which is announced for the Grand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The scenes of the play are laid in Kentucky and in Larchmont, N. Y. It is described as a society comedy-drama, and affords full scope for the play of Miss Taliaferro's talents in the character of the heroine.

Victor Moore.

George M. Cohan, who recently appeared here in "The Yankee Prince," is making hasty arrangements for a flying trip abroad in order to collect local color for a new play which he is constructing to open the new Cohan Theater in New York, at the corner of Broadway and Forty-third street. This latest theatrical proposition will cast six prominent stars now appearing in the different Cohan attractions, including Raymond Hitchcock, of "The Man Who Owns Broadway," Edna Wallace Hopper, George Evans, of minstrel fame; Jack Barrymore, star of "The Fortune Hunter;" Trixie Friganzi, and also Victor Moore, who will be seen here at the Grand in Cohan's "The Talk of New York."

At the Lyric.

No musical comedy that has appeared in Atlanta this season made the hit on its initial appearance that the Wayne Musical Company, in "The Governor, the Girl and the Wise Guy," scored at the Lyric last night before a packed house.

The production is a good one. This is the same company that appeared at Ponce de Leon last season, with some new scenery, some new costumes, some new songs and a larger and more comely chorus. There is just enough plot to carry the production along.

The object of the production seems to be to furnish amusement to the audience and in this it is successful. There are more laughs in this show than any that has appeared at the Lyric this year. The songs, too, are good and they are well sung.

The comedy end of the show is furnished by Harry Gribbon, as Jimmy Burns, and Miss Aimee Travis, as Sarah. To describe the work of these two comedians would take a column. Suffice it to say, that as a pair and individually they bow to no comedian yet seen here. Harry Gribbon's "Mr. Burns" and Miss Travis' "I'm Not That Kind of a Girl" were two of the song hits of the evening and were repeatedly encored.

The company has a good prima donna in Miss Dena Carroll as Miss Mountford. Every one of her numbers pleased wonderfully. "Hello, Mr. Moonman" was good; "Arcadia" was the same, but the hit of all the songs of the evening was "Good Luck, Mary." The audience just would not be still on this song, and encore after encore was the result.

The other members of the cast were good in their parts, the only weak part being Major Bluster as portrayed by Chris Allworth. His voice has too much sameness to it. His work could be improved upon wonderfully.

If you want a good evening's entertainment by witnessing a clever little show, full of many laughs, good songs and clever comedy work, the Wayne Musical Company will give it to you. Many a show at the Grand at $2 per is lots worse than this.

At the Orpheum.

The lemons of the Orpheum last week have turned into oranges this, and the oranges of last week have become a juicier fruit than those offered seven days ago.

There are grades of tastiness to the fruit, it is true, and to some this act and to others that will be the most appetizing, but all in all, it will be a most delicious meal in the entertainment line.

Some of the fruit grew in Florida, some in California, while one orange reported to Atlanta from faraway Havana.

The Havana fruit is booked under the name, "The Five Columbians," an act that excels in the variety it presents. The scenes are built around little 11-year-old Marilyn Miller, who is given every opportunity to show the public the precociousness of youth. Dainty in her every movement, showing both training and natural promise, the little girl scored heavily in her every number. Miss Ruth Miller appealed strongly to the bald-head row. Appearing in well-filled tights for her first song, she caught the attention of the audience. Miss Clare Miller made a realistic doll.

The Three Richardsons evoked screams of laughter and the Temple Quartet were encored on their every song. These two acts are oranges of the classiest sort. There is a flavor about them that will keep the audience fairly screaming for more. Very seldom are two such acts found on a bill outside New York.

The Five Avolos, booked as premier xylophonists, lived up to their name. The act is equal to any of the kind seen here this year. The finale is especially pretty.

Leona Thurber and Harry Madison, in "On a Shopping Tour," and booked as headliners, made good in a rush. There is real comedy galore in this 15 minutes of "foolishness."

Lina Pantzer and Company opened the bill with a unique act, including dancing on a spade, on the floor, and on a bouncing wire. Few openers at this theater have been so well received. Ben Smith pleased with his songs and monologue.

One last word—Go to Florida this week, enter the orange grove, and pluck a juicy fruit. Shut your eyes and take a grab. Whatever your hands close upon will suffice your hunger for amusement.

WATKINS AND LATIMER FORM LAW PARTNERSHIP

Announcement is made today of the formation of the new law firm of Watkins & Latimer, with offices at 1501-1505 Fourth National bank building. This partnership is composed of Edgar Watkins and W. Carroll Latimer, two of the most prominent and popular members of the Atlanta Bar Association and George Bar Association.

Mr. Watkins is a native of Georgia, having been born and primarily educated in Carroll county. He graduated in the law school of the University of Georgia in 1889 and was admitted to the practice of law the same year. Shortly afterwards he moved to Houston, Texas, where he rose rapidly in his profession. He served the city as alderman and later as president of the board of education. He returned to Atlanta in 1907 to become a member of the law firm of Wimbish, Watkins & Ellis, re-created when Judge W. D. Ellis retired to go on the bench. Several months ago he left the firm to set up for himself, pending the formation of the partnership announced. Mr. Watkins is a deep student and clear writer. His work, "Shippers and Carriers of Interstate Freight," just issued from the press, is making a great hit all over the country.

W. Carroll Latimer, the son of the late United States Senator A. C. Latimer, of South Carolina, was born and educated in Abbeville county, S. C. He was graduated from the University of Virginia law school in 1903, and was admitted to practice the same year.

After a year spent abroad he came to Atlanta and for three years was a member of the well-known law firm of Brown & Randolph. Two years ago he engaged in the practice of law by himself. Mr. Latimer is counsel for the Georgia Fruit Exchange and has been closely identified with that organization since its inception.

Albert E. Mayer, of Demopolis, Ala., a graduate of the Harvard law school, will be associated with the firm in their new quarters.

CITY OF MONTGOMERY LAUNCHED YESTERDAY

The City of Montgomery, said to be the largest and most handsomely appointed coastwise vessel on the Atlantic, was launched yesterday at Newport News with a very elaborate ceremony.

Miss Helen Camp Steiner, daughter of Major R. E. Steiner, a director of the Central of Georgia Railway, christened the ship as she left the ways.

The City of Montgomery shall ply between Savannah and New York and is the latest addition to the fleet of the Ocean Steamship Company.

It affords accommodations for 136 first-class passengers, 36 intermediates and 37 in the steerage.

THE WEATHER TODAY: BAD DAY IS PROMISED

The Weather Man Goes Back on His Word of Last Week.

The weather man would be in for a first-class scolding were he a youngster. He's "went and broke" his promise, failed completely to keep his word, and if it wasn't for the fact that it isn't exactly his fault, he'd have something coming to him. As it is, however, he can hardly be blamed very much.

"WELCOME" IS ON THE MAT.

As every one who keeps posted on the weather outlook knows, the weather man in telling about the bad weather that was to come along the latter part of last week, comforted the gloomy ones with the assurance that this week would be more Maylike than May itself. And yet, in spite of this promise, after the bad weather has been patiently endured, he comes along Monday afternoon and tells us that today'll be just about as bad as Monday, which, goodness knows, was bad enough on policemen, newspaper reporters and the like, no matter how well suited to ducks and their kind.

"Well, we get a new postmaster today," said the Gopher, "and a real live fellow, too. I can't say that he's any better than the one who's going out, but they are both good enough for Atlanta and nothing short of the best comes up to that requirement.

"Yes, I hate to see our old friend go out, and yet if he is to leave, I don't know of anyone else I'd as soon see get the place. Changes in every department of even the government must come, naturally, and this being the case, we're lucky, indeed, to get a man who promises to be as good as the retiring one has proven himself to be."

ALL BOXES AND DRAWERS AT POSTOFFICE ARE SOLD

Not until after the new postoffice is completed and occupied can Atlanta business houses, not now renting postoffice drawers and boxes, secure one. Every drawer and box in the present inadequate postoffice is rented and there is a long waiting list to be filled, as soon as one becomes vacant.

"Yes, it is true," said Postmaster Blodgett yesterday. "There is not a vacant box or mail drawer to be had. In fact there never is after the first few days of each quarter, for there is always a long waiting list and those drawers and boxes given up are quickly rented by someone else.

"We have resorted to the waiting list system in order to accommodate those who are anxious for these accommodations and which can only be supplied after we get into the new postoffice next August."

The fact that there is such a demand for these mail facilities is another indication of Atlanta's rapid growth and progress.

HALF-HUNDRED PENSIONERS ON VERGE OF LOSING MONEY

More than half a hundred confederate pensioners are on the eve of losing their 1910 pensions for no other reason than that they have not so far called at the office of Ordinary Wilkinson to get their stipend. The pension commissioners have taken official cognizance of this dereliction on the part of the veterans and have ordered Judge Wilkinson to return the money within the next few days, unless it is called for.

Among those who have not collected their pensions up to date are 32 indigents, 6 members of the invalid or disabled list and 17 "first-class widows."

Following is the complete list:

HIS SORE HANDS CURED IN A WEEK

Cracked Open, Bled, Burned and Ached for Over a Year—Could Not Sleep nor Even Dress Himself—Doctors Failed to Help Him.

MAN OF 70 OWES SKIN COMFORT TO CUTICURA

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do me any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. Effingham, N. H., Mar. 5 and Apr. 11, '09."

Gossip at the Capitol

Governor Brown yesterday denied the requisition of Governor Ansel, of South Carolina, for H. G. Cox, charged with embezzlement in Darlington, S. C. The charges were preferred by the R. L. Dodd Loan Company, which claimed that Cox was entrusted with $500 of their money and that he absconded. From the evidence presented to the governor by Cox, through his attorney, John Moore, it appears that he borrowed this money from this company and it was in nowise a trust. The governor refused to honor the requisition on the ground that he would be collecting a debt, and that such was not his office.

Reports of late trains received by the railroad commission yesterday were as follows: Southern, for week ending January 29, 176 trains off schedule; G. F. & A., for week ending February 26, 33; Seaboard for week ending February 20, 48; G. S. & F. for week ending February 19, 79.

The treasury department yesterday disbursed to the schools in the state for maintenance of equipment and teaching force, $32,529.13. This leaves $160,507.04 remaining of last year's appropriation for the schools.

STRONGLY RECOMMENDS USE OF OLEOMARGARINE

Dr. R. E. Stallings, state chemist of Georgia, and an authority on foods and feeding stuffs laws, not only of Georgia, but of the Federal government, is an ardent advocate of the use of oleomargarine as a table food. In view of the discussion now going on throughout the country in regard to this well-known edible fat, brought about by the measure before congress to reduce the present tax on colored oleomargarine, his strong stand in this regard will be read with interest, not only in this state, but throughout the country, where his writings and speeches on pure food subjects are often quoted.

In speaking of oleomargarine and the pure food law, Dr. Stallings says:

"Much has been said regarding the recommendation of Secretary Macveagh, of the treasury department, to congress for a reduction of the tax on colored oleomargarine.

"The principle on which all food laws are based is that every article of food that is sold should be sold under its true name, and only articles of food that are injurious to health be prohibited from sale.

"It is conceded that oleomargarine, when properly made, is a wholesome and nutritious article of food. It seems to be a discriminating law to tax a wholesome article of food for the protection of another food (butter). I believe that oleomargarine should be sold as oleomargarine, and that it should be allowed to take its chances in the markets with other articles of food on its own merits. It would furnish a wholesome substitute for butter and would furnish a wholesome fat for those who are unable to buy butter at the present prices."

General Brooks Resigns.

Columbia, S. C., February 28.—General C. Irvine Walker, of Charleston, commanding the Army of Northern Virginia division, United Confederate Veterans, announces the resignation of Adjutant General U. B. Brooks, of Columbia, and the appointment in his stead of J. Fuller Lyon, of Columbia. General Brooks finds the annual reunion conflicts with his duties as clerk to the South Carolina supreme court.

YOUTH ELOPES WITH GIRL AND HE REFUSES TO GIVE HER UP TO DEPUTY SHERIFF

Rising Fawn, Ga., February 28.—Oliver Downs eloped from Fort Payne yesterday with Miss Minnie Norman, 15 years old. They were overtaken by a deputy sheriff before reaching the Georgia line, but the youth had a pistol and said he would die before giving up the girl.

The deputy turned back, and the enraged father telephoned Sulphur Springs to stop the ceremony, pursuing on a passenger train. The couple came in to Rising Fawn, and the deputy and father walked five miles from Sulphur Springs in the rain, arriving five minutes too late.

The groom lost his pocketbook in the excitement, but it was finally located. The preacher finally persuaded the father to make the best of the situation.

MAGNIFICENT STATUE OF LEE DESIGNED BY FORMER ATLANTAN

William Frederick Sievers, the sculptor whose design for a monument to Virginia's soldiers who fell at Gettysburg was adopted over many other designs, was a former resident of and his family still lives in this city.

When a boy, Mr. Sievers was well known in Atlanta, being one of the first newspaper carriers of the city. Later he entered the Virginia Mechanics Institute, at Richmond, and subsequently became an instructor at that institution.

Having made such brilliant progress in his chosen profession in America, Mr. Sievers went to Europe to finish his education. He spent several years in Rome and Paris, winning first prize at the Academy of Fine Arts in Rome in 1899.

This is not the first statue.

Mr. Sievers has executed a number of Confederate monuments and has one of the largest private clientele of any sculptor in this country.

His Virginia statue is considered by many the finest piece of sculpture ever done by an American artist. His idea shows Lee, mounted, on high ground, studying the Federal reserves beyond the near line of battle. The group of men in front of the base will picture a charging column, typifying the historic effort of Pickett's men. The memorial will cost $50,000.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 1, 1910.

The blizzard-order is "March, little violets,—March!"

The popular verdict as to a tariff in whitewash is simply "Too thin."

February was not to be envied, but here's nothing short about March.

Mr. Halley was fortunate in discovering a comet to hold a candle to his fame.

Now, if we could only exchange Dr. Wiley's cook book for a pound of meat!

Mr. Bryan will not return until the ice melts and the running is as good as ever.

Here's hoping that Mr. Fairbanks will have a real pretty day for his home-coming.

Perhaps Mr. Taft expects too much of a backsliding party. It can't tie a knot in a comet's tail.

The spring picnic train has been sidetracked, and the monotony is not relieved by a bird-concert.

When Roosevelt sees that lank Tammany tiger he'll wonder why it isn't in the Smithsonian institution.

Mr. Rockefeller doesn't care to be praised to the skies by Senator Gorton, or anyone else—not just now.

The Panama libel case has been appealed. Think of the time the administration must have to hunt trouble.

An eminent astronomer says that "Comet B" has been lost. Never mind. Roosevelt will be here on time.

The name of Vice-President Sherman appeared in print the day after he invited Senator Gordon to take the chair.

No one has ever been found who was reckless enough to avow the presidency of a possum trust in Georgia.

The National Whitewash Brigade has such a big job on hand it may have to order "brushes of comet's hair."

February leaves the legacy of a blizzard to March; but that's something for the gruff old fellow to blow about.

Mississippi's sixty-day senator says he would not be a millionaire. No? And be able to order a whole ham in times like the present?

The man who got a divorce because his wife wouldn't say "Amen" when he prayed may have omitted to ask the angels for an Easter hat.

How Colonel Roosevelt will enjoy writing the history of Texas, where the place that he has so often raised breaks out every little while.

When Editor Hemphill returns to Charleston for the spring picnic at Goose Creek his first exclamation will be: "My, how you have grown!"

The beef trust bellows. It has at last discovered that knocking the public on the head is somewhat different from that method as applied to cattle.

The Taft measures will not add to the popularity of the administration if they keep congress sawing the air when it's time for the members to take the chautauqua platform.

And now, someone has stolen the Bible of Editor Bailey, of the Houston Post. He might have seen the fellow climbing to the top shelf, and rummaging where the dust is thickest.

ABOUT THE UNJUST TAX ON THE 'POOR MAN'S BUTTER.'

Elsewhere, Col. I. C. Wade, of Cornelia, one of the most prominent and influential business men of North Georgia, again defends the retention of the 10 cents a pound tax on artificially-colored oleomargarine, "the poor man's butter," largely composed of a southern product—cotton seed oil—against The Constitution's attack upon what is essentially an unjust and discriminating imposition.

Two other correspondents have written The Constitution in somewhat similar vein, so that we take occasion to make plain our position at some length.

There is no earthly danger that oleo, however pure, will, as Colonel Wade seems to fear, ever drive natural butter from the market; there is every probability that natural butter, pure or impure—a great deal of it artificially colored—will drive oleo from the market and thus deprive thousands of people of the poorer classes of a food product, not only within their means, but absolutely vouched for and branded under the pure food laws.

Colonel Wade has much to say in condemnation of artificially-colored oleomargarine; in fact, virtually the sole quarrel on his part, and the part of those of his opinion, is giving oleo the right at all, even under a tax of 10 cents a pound, to employ artificial coloring matter.

Colonel Wade does not say one word regarding ARTIFICIALLY-COLORED NATURAL BUTTER, WHICH DOES NOT PAY A PENNY'S TAX, BUT WHICH FROM SCORES OF SLACK AND INFREQUENTLY INSPECTED CREAMERIES MAY JEOPARDIZE THE PUBLIC HEALTH AS RIGOROUSLY-INSPECTED OLEO NEVER CAN OR WILL.

It was the original demand of The Constitution, and still is, that, so long as any grade of butter, parading, through laxity of law and custom as natural butter, CAN PUT ON A FALSE FRONT WITH ARTIFICIAL COLORING, IT SHOULD ALSO BE TAXED SIDE BY SIDE WITH ARTIFICIALLY-COLORED OLEO.

Colonel Wade and his supporters announce their perfect willingness to approve the sale of oleo, provided it is plainly branded as such and sells as such in the open market.

By law, OLEOMARGARINE IS BRANDED AS OLEOMARGARINE, WHETHER OR NOT IT IS ARTIFICIALLY COLORED. A FEDERAL PURE FOOD INSPECTOR AT EVERY OLEO FACTORY GUARANTEES ITS PURITY WITH A COMPLETENESS NOT YET ACHIEVED BY CREAMERY BUTTER

Where does this plain fact leave Colonel Wade's complaint?

Colonel Wade challenges the accuracy of The Constitution when we give the composition of oleo as 60 per cent milk, 25 per cent pure cotton seed oil and 15 per cent guaranteed pure oleomargarine. Formulas used by different manufacturers vary considerably, but The Constitution struck a broad general average in the absence of information kept rigorously secret by the factories. In Rotterdam, Holland, the greatest butter, and also the greatest oleomargarine-producing, city in the world, the manufacturers are reported to use 25 per cent cottonseed oil.

WHATEVER THE VARYING PERCENTAGE OF COTTONSEED OIL IN OLEO, EVERY OUNCE OF IT PROVIDES A MARKET FOR MILLIONS OF SOUTHERN FARMERS WHO MAY NEVER BE ABLE TO KEEP A HERD FOR CREAMERY PURPOSES, BUT WHO WILL ALWAYS HAVE A LARGE RESIDUE OF COTTONSEED LEFT TO SELL TO THE MILLS.

Colonel Wade would also appeal to the state chemist. Elsewhere we publish a statement from State Chemist Stallings which, pronouncing oleomargarine pure and wholesome, seems to settle the matter from that standpoint.

The declaration of the dairymen against oleo was to have been expected. Taking this stand, the resolutions of the recent convention of dairymen at Athens recite that "such a course would be extremely detrimental to the dairy farmers and other related industries, by permitting the sale of imitation butters at high prices." "Detrimental," speaking financially, tells a significant story.

What logical objection can any man or set of men have to the sale of "imitation butters" at ANY PRICE, so long as their purity is GUARANTEED and THEIR NATURE PLAINLY BRANDED?

The Constitution wants to see a hundred creameries in Georgia where there is now one. It wants to see a hundred packing houses, a hundred stock farms, where there is now one.

BUT IT DOES NOT WANT TO SEE A GREAT OUTLET FOR A COTTON BY-PRODUCT SHUT OFF, NOR DOES IT WANT TO SEE A PURE FOOD PRODUCT BANNED BECAUSE IT IS ARTIFICIALLY COLORED WHEN ANOTHER FOOD PRODUCT, ALSO OFTEN ARTIFICIALLY COLORED, WITH NO GREATER GUARANTEE OF ITS PURITY, IS ALLOWED A SALE VIRTUALLY UNTAXED.

ATLANTA'S NEW POSTMASTER.

Young, active, capable and experienced, Hugh L. McKee, under appointment by President Taft, today takes charge of the Atlanta postoffice, with auspices bright and satisfactory.

Mr. McKee is well known to Atlantans through long residence here; he has become, distinctively, an Atlantan. He is known, too, through his years of connection with the postoffice as cashier, a position of responsibility, and one in which he has had splendid opportunity for gathering experience that will well fit him for his new position.

In point of business and receipts, the Atlanta postoffice has outstripped those of other southern cities, because Atlanta has grown; and early in his administration the postoffice will move into its new and more commodious quarters, where, with the continued growth of Atlanta, its aggregate transactions will keep on climbing upward.

Thus does Postmaster McKee take hold at a time of important activity and growth; when he must have at least one eye on progress in order to keep pace with it.

That he will measure up, there will be no question among those who know him.

His retention of retiring Postmaster E. F. Blodgett will prove of value and importance to his administration of the office and to the Atlanta public.

It is indicative of the thorough harmony and accord between the new postmaster and his predecessor, and the result is, it gives Postmaster McKee the splendid assistance of a man long trained to the service and familiar with the Atlanta office to its smallest detail.

The Atlanta office has prospered and grown under Postmaster Blodgett's administration, and there will be widespread gratification over the fact that the office, and the people of Atlanta, through it, are not to be deprived of his excellent services.

Postmaster McKee and Assistant Postmaster Blodgett will give the Atlanta office one of the strongest teams it has ever had; and with early removal to the new building, Atlanta will, undoubtedly, have a service unexcelled anywhere in the United States.

POSTAGE RATES AND EDUCATION.

This proposal to increase the postage rates on certain second-class matter, so strongly urged by Postmaster General Hitchcock in his reply to the statement of the magazine publishers, if carried into effect, would prove somewhat of a serious blow to the cause of general education in the United States.

Getting down to brass tacks, the low postage rate on periodicals of all sorts is one of the primary factors in the making of low-priced literature and its circulation into every nook and corner of the country.

Admitted that the postage rate is below the cost to the department of handling this class of matter, this is practically the only contribution which the national government makes to the cause of general education.

Any marked increase which might be made in the postage rate would mean an increased cost to the public of such periodicals as were affected, and a consequent decrease in their circulation.

It may be highly desirable to make the expenses of the postoffice department accord more nearly with its income; but it was never intended as, and should in no sense be made, an institution of profit to the government.

An approximately self-supporting postoffice department, economically operated, would approach the ideal.

Right here there are several matters to be considered before that of increased postage rates is reached.

In the first place, the postmaster general himself has pointed out where the deficit can be reduced by approximately $3,500,000 by cutting off the much-used and frequently abused franking privilege.

Then, we have heard it stated, and can scarcely question the truth of the assertion, that a thorough reorganization of the department in all its branches, and in the various details of the service, would disclose the possibility of considerable paring down of expenditure without impairment of the service. Why not have this situation thoroughly gone into by experts?

Next, before any action is taken in the direction threatened, congress should have before it definite information regarding the cost of transporting the mails, and the cost of transporting express freight.

The Constitution has repeatedly called attention to the necessity for securing this information as a prerequisite to determining whether the government is paying the railroads too much for mail transportation.

Mr. Hitchcock gives these matters no consideration whatever in his reply to the magazine publishers.

Would it not be well first to get the department upon a basis of practical economy along the lines suggested, and, possibly, others, before talking about increased postage rates at any point?

Then, if there still remained a deficit, the chances are it would be so small that the postoffice department would not be far removed from a self-supporting basis.

ANTHONY FIALA, FRIEND.

A refreshing example of friendship, rare enough in these days of intensive commercialism, is that displayed by Anthony Fiala, the Arctic explorer, in the faith with which he still regards the polar claims of Dr. Cook.

Mr. Fiala's theory is that, in all probability, Dr. Cook really reached the North Pole, but that he was unable to establish convincing proofs of his achievement. Mr. Fiala also comments, with some truth, on the venomous and unrelenting nature of the criticism of Cook, which has followed him even into his place of refuge.

Whether the Fiala hypothesis will ever be vindicated or disproved is subject for sheer conjecture.

History abounds in unsolved riddles of this description, and every present prospect is that the Cook mystery will remain in that class.

The personality of the man fought long on his side, in the face of rather crushing circumstantial evidence. Had it not been for the Mount McKinley complication it is not impossible that the world might have been disposed to attach less importance to the verdict of the outraged University of Copenhagen.

"JUST FROM GEORGIA"

In Hard Times.

When a feller goes to preachin'
That the Country's goin' to bust,'
Don't hit him with a cabbage
Of the Vegetable Trust.

For meat's as high
As an airship in the sky,
An' you'll need the humblest cabbage
For to get there, by and by.

When a feller says the comet's
Goin' to strike the old world dead,
Don't hit him with a melon
When the juice is drippin' red.

For meat's as nigh
As a comet in the sky,
And you'll need the Georgia melons
For to get there, by and by.

Heard by the Wayside.

Some folks who are wise enough to take Time by the forelock have been known, in a moment of absent-mindedness, to investigate the 'hind heels of a Georgia mule, and then to blame the world for lost time in going up in the air and coming down with a dull thud. But human nature is contrary, and you've got to take it for exactly what it's worth.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY WRITES OF FOREIGN COURTS

(Copyright, 1910, for The Constitution.)

When the Prince of Wales succeeds to the throne, he will be able to take up the business of state with a far greater degree of facility than his father was able to do at the time of his accession. For, whereas the late Queen Victoria kept her eldest son aloof from all matters of state, retaining the reins of government in her own hands with such a degree of exclusiveness as to almost savor of jealousy, King Edward has for several years past been associating his heir apparent in the duties of sovereignty. Thus, the Prince of Wales visits Buckingham palace every morning after breakfast, when in town, and remains there for two or three hours, occupying a room adjoining that of his father, the doors being open between them, and attends to all sorts of matters of routine and of detail, relieving the monarch of a large amount of work and trouble. Moreover, in all important matters, frequently in interviews with the ministers, the king calls his son into consultation. So that the prince knows exactly where he stands in every pending issue, and is thoroughly initiated into all his father's views and policies.

The King Gets Time Off.

It is, thanks to this, that the king is able to be away from London so much, and that he will be able to enjoy his holiday at Biarritz, for which southern French resort he is leaving this week. When he came to the throne he knew virtually nothing of the routine business of his mother's government. He had never been taken into her confidence, and during the first few weeks of his reign was obliged constantly to consult his youngest sister, Princess Henry, of Battenberg, who had been her mother's constant companion and associate, and who knew far more about her methods of carrying on the duties of sovereignty than himself. In fact, the confusion was very great, especially in view of the sudden accumulation of arrears of business during the few days of the late queen's fatal illness. Indeed, the only matters with which the king was acquainted were the broad outlines of the foreign policy of the government, and this knowledge was entirely due to the fact that Mr. Gladstone, when premier, had taken upon himself, without the approval of the late queen, to give orders that copies of all the important dispatches reaching the foreign office from abroad, as well as copies of the replies thereto, should be transmitted to the then Prince of Wales for his information. Queen Victoria did not care to go to the length of putting a stop to the practice, which was kept up by the subsequent administrations. King Edward was always grateful to Mr. Gladstone for this action on his part, and never neglected an opportunity of showing his consideration and warm friendship for the Grand Old Man.

Fortune From a Stranger.

Lord Kingal, the popular but somewhat impoverished Irish peer, and head of the Irish house of Plunkett, has just inherited a fortune of $50,000 from a perfect stranger, of whose name he had never even heard, until notified by the testator's lawyers that he was the legatee. The property was that of the late Joseph Fitzgerald Lynch, who obtained a commission in one of the West Indian regiments away back in the sixties, and spent several years on military duty on the Gold Coast, until his health broke down, whereupon he resigned his commission, joined the Jesuit Order, and was sent out by the latter to New Orleans. In 1876 he left the order and went back to the west coast of Africa as assistant commissioner, remained some years there, then resigned his appointment, and leaving Africa, spent the remainder of his life partly in Ireland and partly in the United States. He left a younger brother and several other relatives; but when the will came up for probate they were forced to admit that he was perfectly sane, and in full possession of his reason when he made the will; while the very fact that he was not personally acquainted with Lord Fingal, relieved the latter of all imputation of having exercised any undue influence upon him. Accordingly, the will was probated in favor of the earl, to whom the $50,000 comes as a perfect godsend. For, already straitened through the circumstance that most of his revenues were derived from Irish land, his affairs were rendered still more embarrassed by his unfortunate ventures in Australian mining stocks, which forced him for a number of years to let his ancestral home, Killeen castle, in County Meath, to wealthy Americans.

A Remarkable Plunkett.

One of the most remarkable member of his family was the late Father William Plunkett, his uncle, and for a long time the heir to his earldom. For the Hon. William Plunkett, after serving for a time in the army, entered the orders of the Roman Catholic church and went out to Australia, where he spent all the closing years of his life doing missionary work in the gold fields and gold mines, acquiring an extraordinary influence and respect among the rough miners.

Father William's other brother was the late Sir Francis Plunkett, long British ambassador at Vienna and married to the daughter of Charles W. Morgan, of Philadelphia.

Lady Plunkett survives, and one of her daughters is the wife of Count Fersen Gyldenstolpe, now minister plenipotentiary of Sweden in Paris.

The Plunketts are supposed to be of Danish origin, but have been settled in Ireland ever since the twelfth century, and have been in possession of Killeen castle since the year 1403, when it was obtained from Sir Christopher Plunkett through his marriage to the only child and heiress of Sir Lucas Cusac. Sir Christopher was the first Lord Killeen, and it is from him that the present Earl of Fingal is descended in an unbroken line.

Open to the Public.

Sir Edward Tennant, having built a large picture gallery to his London mansion in Queen Anne's Gate, has provided it with a separate entrance to the street and has announced that the public can on certain days of the week have access to the very fine collection of pictures formed by his father, the late Sir Charles Tennant, and devoted entirely to the English school of painting. Sir Edward Tennant is a brother of Mrs. Asquith, wife of the premier.

There are quite a number of these private house collections open to the public in London, free of cost, among the most notable being the superb gallery of paintings of the Duke of Westminster at Grosvenor House, and of the Duke of Wellington at Apsley House, the galleries in the latter being filled not only with wonderful spanish old masters, but also with relics of the Iron Duke and of Waterloo. These galleries of the Dukes of Westminster and Wellington, of the Earl of Ellesmere at Bridgewater House, of the Duke of Sutherland at Stafford House and of several other wealthy peers and great financial magnates in London are more particularly open to the public on Sunday, with a view of rendering them accessible to the working classes, and Sir Edward Tennant is adopting the same policy with regard to his new gallery.

Sir Wallace's Liberality.

The late Sir Richard Wallace showed a similar degree of enlightened liberality with regard to his world-famed collections at Hertford House, and his widow, in pursuance of his views, when she died, bequeathed Hertford House and all its contents to the nation, together with a large endowment, for use as an art museum. It is a pity that the private owners of splendid collections of paintings in this country do not follow suit in this matter.

Sir Edward Tennant is very rich and is married to one of that lovely trio of daughters of Percy Wyndham, whose famous portrait by Sargent, exhibited at the Royal Academy, was happily described by King Edward as "The Three Graces." Sir Edward, like his father before him, derives his wealth from the greatest chemical works in the United Kingdom. He has represented Salisbury in parliament for many years, and on his father's death found himself the largest individual owner of stock in The London Times. It is understood that he disposed of these holdings to Lord Harmsworth and that it is owing to their acquisition by that peer that the latter is able to exercise a controlling influence over "The Thunderer." The holdings of Lord Harmsworth do not represent a majority of the stock, but the largest individual block; the remainder of the stock, including that belonging to the Walter family, being divided up amongst a number of people who are hopelessly at variance with one another and apparently incapable of any united action.

Letters From the People

WANTS MORE FARMERS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Editor Constitution: The newspapers, daily and weekly, bear testimony to the fact that we are again getting into the midst of politics. The people are preparing to take steps, some have already taken steps, to provide for local officers for the two years next ensuing. They are naming, or soon will name, in authorized primary elections, local officers, a governor, state house officials, members of the legislature and congressmen.

The reform that needs to be introduced, the custom rather that needs to be revived, in 1910, is a manly discussion of the public questions of the day from the hustings, from every stump, if you please, in every county in the state.

Out upon personalisms in public discussions of great public issues. Measures to the front; the man to the rear.

This is purely incidental. The particular subject I wish to stress is the necessity for a return to the policy and practice that obtained notably from 1882 up to five or six years ago; that is, to select as members of the lower house of the General Assembly of the state a larger number of farmers.

The record authorizes the statement that of the membership of the house from 1882 to 1904 seventy-five per cent were straight-out farmers. The senate and the house of 1890-91 was composed of two-thirds farmers.

Since 1904, there has been a change—fewer farmers in the successive houses. Of the present house, 1909-1910, only 32 per cent are straight-out farmers.

Why a larger number of farmers as representatives? Because they are instinctively conservative. They are opposed to extravagances in the expenditure of the state's money. They are antagonistic to extreme legislation on any subject. They believe in the perfect equality of the laws. They are open to conviction, but your arguments and your facts must, respectively, be as unanswerable and incontrovertible as they may be persuasive and convincing.

If the farmer legislator be in doubt, he quietly votes, No. Make the necessities of the situation perfectly clear, and he quietly but firmly and continuously votes, Yea.

There can not be found on the statute books of Georgia an extreme, unreasonable or partisan law enacted by a legislature that had a house whose membership carried 75 per cent straight-out farmers.

When the result of the election of 1890 was published, and it appeared that two-thirds of both senate and house were Farmers' Alliance men, elected as Democratic Alliance men, a feeling of serious apprehension possessed the hearts of hundreds of persons who flattered themselves that they knew men—apprehension that we would witness an era of extreme, radical, wild legislation.

I appeal to the record, as written in the laws enacted by that wonderful body of well-informed, intensely earnest and sincere men, to prove that that almost exclusive farmers' legislature did more for public education, for higher education, for banks and for the protection of depositors in banks, for the varied interests of the entire state, than was done before or that has since been attempted.

Understand, I am not opposed to lawyers. I honor the profession as one of the noblest. A pretty good knowledge of law—gives a studious man a valuable equipment as a legislator. Send to the house, especially a sprinkling of lawyers, merchants, editors, physicians, preachers and traders, but see to it that the farmers are in the majority—see to it that three-fourths of the members chosen for the house of 1911-12 are straight-out farmers. See to it that a farmer is given a seat, here and there, in the senate. Do all this and you will create a new era of good fellowship; you will put the state on the highway of continuing prosperity.

COLONEL I. C. WADE AGAIN ATTACKS OLEOMARGARINE

Editor Constitution: In reply to your editorial about "oleo," in connection with my previous article, I would say that I am more concerned in The Constitution getting its fighting suit for stock interests of the south on straight than anything else; for I know full well if the dairy interests of Georgia have got to fight The Constitution and other daily papers that are fighting for oleo, we might as well give up the fight.

The case is the Dairymen and Live Stock Association, all the agricultural schools of Georgia—in fact, all the interests seeking to build up Georgia via dairymen and good stock—vs. oleo and oil trust.

Now, to come down to hard tacks. I challenge your statement that the dairyman gets 60 per cent of the ingredients of oleo. I also challenge the statement that oleo is comprised of 25 per cent cotton seed oil. If either of these statements are true, then I am a falsifier.

I make you this proposition: That our state chemist analyze three different lots of oleo that can be bought in Atlanta. If you are correct I will cheerfully pay all expenses and withdraw every statement I have made about oleo. If you are not correct, you are to withdraw yours and get on our side, and stand to maintain the 10-cent tax on colored oleo.

I do this—first, because I am confident of my case; and, furthermore, the formulas for the manufacture of the three grades of oleo lie before me, and I have them direct from the highest authority in the United States. Second, I think too much of the good will of The Constitution, and want it to get its fighting stock clothes on right. Then, together, we will make a showing worth while.

Now, as to your "pith of the matter and rank and indefensible injustice to dairymen and farmers," don't that sound a little absurd? If not, just read the appended Georgia Live Stock resolutions. Then you will see how they stand.

You seem to miss the point of the contention. We do not for a moment claim oleo should be taxed 10 cents. We want it free and sold for just what it is. But when you put it up in butter molds, one-pound prints, and deftly color it to look like butter, so as to deceive, then we say, "tax it." And just as long as it is in anyway intended to and does deceive the public, just so long it is a fraud, and The Constitution should condemn it. Now, isn't that straight and fair, Mr. Editor?

Remember our platform and please do not try to get us off it and on another.

"No tax on any pure food product, but—a tax on stuff colored to deceive." Am I not right?

It is dodging the question when one goes off on a long dissertation on poor butter. Every honest man condemns anything unfit for food. Yes. But be honest and let every tub stand on its own bottom.

We perfectly agree with your last clause, and if you will follow me in this and the previous article, it is just what I am arguing for.

But, "his eyes are not open" when oleo is disguised so one cannot tell it, is it? "A fair field and open fight and no favors," and we have no fear but what "truth, which is mighty, will prevail."

I. C. WADE.
Cornelia, Ga.

The Resolutions.

The resolutions passed at Athens, to which Colonel Wade refers, are as follows:

"Whereas, at this time there is considerable agitation concerning prices of butter and other dairy products, and a determined effort is being made to repeal the present federal tax on colored oleomargarine;

"And, whereas, such a course would be extremely detrimental to the dairy farmers and other related industries by permitting the sale of imitation butters at high prices;

"And, whereas, it is the earnest desire of this association to have the public supplied with pure dairy butter, and also with pure oleomargarine whenever needed, each at a legitimate price and without fraud or deception;

"And, whereas, lack of knowledge years have enhanced the value of cotton seed oil used in the manufacture of process butter, the same being less than 2 per cent of the total ingredients when used at all, and at prevailing market prices the use of cotton oil being too costly, so that cheaper slaughter house by-products are used instead;

"And, whereas, the steady development of the dairy and live stock interests of Georgia during the past ten years has enhanced the value of cotton oil mill products from $50 to 100 per cent, and thereby greatly benefited the producers of cotton seed and breeders of cattle, besides greatly increasing the total wealth and welfare of the state;

"And, whereas, such objects can be attained only by continuing the present federal tax on colored oleomargarine, and by properly strengthening and enforcing the pure food laws regarding the labeling and sale of every food product under its true and proper name;

"Therefore, be it resolved, That it be the sense of this association that the Georgia members in congress be requested to insist upon maintaining the present 10 per cent tax on colored oleomargarine, and the proper enforcement of the law requiring the correct labeling or other designation of colored and uncolored substitutes for butter, so as to permit the dairymen to sell a first-class food article at a price fair to producer and consumer, and also enable manufacturers of butter substitutes to sell their product strictly upon its merits.

"Be it further resolved, That the newspapers of the state of Georgia be requested to investigate this subject, and deal fairly in an editorial way with all sides of the matter."

CITY CANDIDATES GETTING BUSY

Announcements Made for Aldermen and Councilmen.

While the main interest has been recently centered in the mayoralty race, there are some other candidates who have been getting busy.

In the third ward the many friends of Councilman Charles L. Chosewood have put him forward for alderman to succeed Alderman Pittman. Mr. Chosewood has not made any definite announcement, but so many of his third ward constituents have asked him to make the race for alderman that he is now considering the matter and may probably announce in a few days.

In the seventh ward, F. J. Spratling, ex-councilman, is in the race for alderman, and so far has no opposition, and it is not believed that he will be opposed. He made an excellent record in council.

James H. Andrews has announced for councilman from the seventh ward.

In the eighth ward, Dr. A. H. Van Dyke, a member of the police board, has announced for council and he is up to this time the only candidate for council from that ward.

The Mayoralty Race.

There has been no change in the mayoralty race. So far, Fletcher A. Quillian is the only announced candidate. Mayor Pro Tem. E. E. Pomeroy will probably make an announcement in a few days. His friends say that he will undoubtedly make the race.

The friends of James G. Woodward say he can be counted on to announce in a short while. Mr. Woodward will not say what he intends to do just at this time.

Other names that have been mentioned in this connection are Carlos H. Mason, chairman of the police board; A. L. Curtis, ex-alderman from the first ward; Courtland S. Winn, member of the school board; John W. Grant, alderman from the sixth ward; James W. English, Sr.; Thomas H. Goodwin, ex-councilman from the second ward; William A. Hancock, alderman from the seventh ward, and Dr. T. D. Longino.

The lot is located near the corner of Decatur and Courtland streets, and has a frontaage, it is alleged, on Courtland street alone.

EXPERT MAKES REPORT ON PUMP

New Pump All Right. Water Board to Meet Bond Commission.

The new pump for the waterworks department was up for consideration by the water board yesterday afternoon, when an official report from Engineer Charles A. Hayne was read.

The report consisted of several pages of typewritten technicalities, which boiled down meant:

That the pump had done more than required of it; that while required to pump 20,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours, it could pump 21,200,000 gallons.

It was recommended that all outside incidental claims against the Wisconsin Engine Company be settled and that the contract be held open for at least one year in order that all defective workmanship and faulty design may be corrected.

It was stated that the test lasted from 9 p. m., February 5, until 12 o'clock, February 6, and was made by Mr. Hayne and Cornelius S. Myers, representing the company.

It was recommended that the city do away with the fire pressure on the pumps and that hereafter only a domestic pressure be used, and that for fires, engines be used which would save the machinery and the cost of operating.

The following committee was appointed to take up the report in detail and make such recommendations as were necessary:

Frank G. Lake, president of the board; W. Z. Smith, general manager; Engineer Collier and the city attorney.

A resolution by Commissioner Stocks was adopted naming the new pump "H. T. Inman." Ex-Mayor Joyner, after whom the pump was first named, requested that the name be changed.

The water board will meet on February 9 with the bond commission for the purpose of acting on the laying of pipe and mains with the bond money.

BROGDON BOUND OVER ON BURGLARY CHARGE

O. D. Brogdon, a young white man, was bound over in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of burglarizing the home of Mrs. J. W. Madaris, 490 Whitehall street, last Saturday, and attempting to rob the gas meter. Mrs. Madaris testified that she caught Brogdon in the act of robbing the meter, and that he explained that he was an investigator of the inspector and was there on business. Mrs. Madaris stated that Brogdon put the money back and left, carrying with him a small hand bag such as employees of the gas company have.

Mrs. Madaris became suspicious and reported the case to the Atlanta Gas Light Company. Detectives Hewell and Hollingsworth went to work on the case and from Mrs. Madaris' description arrested Brogdon.

Mills and Lieutenant Laurson, aide-de-camp, will return to the department of the gulf today from the forts in Florida which the commanding officer has been inspecting during the past week. In a few days now General Mills will begin the preparation of his annual report to the war department, in which he will make a detailed statement in regard to these inspections, and will also include specific recommendations for the department for the ensuing year.

ATLANTA MAN ATTENDS FUNERAL OF HAWTHORNE

W. Woods White, the well-known insurance man, with offices in the Candler Building, has returned from Richmond, where last week he attended the funeral of the late Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, for years pastor of the First Baptist church of this city. Mr. White, while not a member of that church, but a prominent Presbyterian, is a strong admirer of the late Dr. Hawthorne and hurried to Richmond when he learned of the eminent divine's death.

"It was a wonderful funeral," said Mr. White; "the floral offerings were the most magnificent and beautiful I have ever seen. The offering sent by the First Baptist church of Atlanta was, I think, the handsomest floral design at the funeral.

"Dr. Hawthorne was buried within a short distance of the late President Jefferson Davis in beautful Hollywood cemetery. The following to this funeral was one of the greatest outpouring of all denominations ever seen in Richmond."

GRANT MEMORIAL CAUSES TROUBLE

Members Park Commission Opposed to Design.

Some of the Park Commissioners Say That Design Selected Shall Not Be Placed in Grant Park---Matter Will Be Acted On This Afternoon.

Members of the park commission have expressed themselves as opposed to the memorial which has been selected for Grant park in memory of the late L. P. Grant. One member of the commission has gone sofar as to say that the memorial selected shall never be erected in Grant park by a vote of the commission, and that if the commission votes not to let the memorial be erected, no council on earth can put it there.

"Let the council go on and buy all the memorials it wants to," states this park commissioner. "We don't care how many it buys, but if the one selected does not suit us we can reject it, and then I would like to see anybody put it in the park."

One thing that has displeased members of the park commission is an interview with Councilman Steve Johnston, who was quoted as saying that the "commission butted in" and that it, the commission, could not take away from the council committee the right to select the memorial. He was also quoted as concluding his remarks with the expression, "Nay, nay, Pauline."

Two Committees Appointed.

There was a committee appointed from the commission and another from the general council. The committee of which Mr. Johnston was a member finally agreed to let the committee from the commission act in a sort of "advisory capacity."

As stated in Sunday's Constitution, the committees selected a memorial, and a picture of it was published.

Now come several members of the park commission who say the design is not what it should be, and they will ask that the matter be held up until the art league of architects submit a design.

The matter will come up before the park commission this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

As the situation now stands, the memorial has been selected, and a company instructed to go ahead and make it at a cost of $900. If this action is adhered to and the park commission votes for it not to be placed in Grant Park, there will be a very lively and decidedly interesting row.

Tuberculosis Often Develops From Pneumonia

Consumption readily attacks those who have had Pneumonia. Many sufferers from tuberculosis give a history of having had pneumonia. The lungs thus weakened are more easily attacked by the germs that cause consumption.

For all those with "weak lungs," especially those who have had pneumonia, Eckman's Alterative is the appropriate remedy. Cures of consumption are accomplished by Eckman's Alterative. But take it in time. There is no wisdom in waiting until Tuberculosis is established.

Health is never fully valued until sickness comes.

"I wish I had known of Eckman's Alterative two years ago. Since taking it I have gained twenty-eight pounds and I cannot but be very thankful to you and the Almighty God for the great blessng and change of health it has brought me."

FIFTY BEERETTE PLACES CLOSED AT NASHVILLE

Distress Warrants Issued by County Clerk to Collect Tax.

Nashville, Tenn., February 28:—Over fifty beerette places have been closed here, it is given out by County Court Clerk Shelton, and several more will be closed up today by reason of the issuance of the distress warrants. It is stated that sixty dealers have settled with the clerk so far, and that several more will settle today.

The point has been raised by city officials in regard to the city's proceeding with the issuance of distress warrants and getting her part of the tax; that the city, being a corporation, would be liable for damages if any warrants were wrongfully issued and damage result thereby; that the state and county could not be sued, on the other hand, for damages.

Any Woman Can Have Beautiful Hair

(From French Beauty Monthly.)

"No woman should use water upon her hair oftener than once in two months," says M. Fournier, the noted French scientist. "Dry powder only should be used. Moisture causes the hair to lose its color and in time become thin.

"Any woman desiring abundant, lustrous hair should use a dry shampoo every two or three days. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therox. Sprinkle about a tablespoonful of this mixture upon the head; then brush the powder thoroughly through the hair. This will keep it light and fluffy, and beautifully lustrous. You will soon see new hair starting to grow. This treatment is the only thing that I am sure will produce a growth of hair.

"While plain orris root is used as a dry shampoo by many women, still, no such results can be obtained as by using the formula I have given."

CHATTAHOOCHEE RISES RAPIDLY

Streams in West Georgia Are Out of Their Banks.

Columbus, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—The Chattahoochee river is rising rapidly tonight, and it is feared that the steamer Queen City, which sank at the Columbus wharf several days ago, will be swept away. The work of raising the boat had begun when the rise came.

An unusually heavy rain swept over west Georgia this morning and streams are out of their banks. It is reported that quite a number of bridges over creeks in adjoining counties have been swept away.

Damage in Butts County.

Jackson, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—The heaviest rain in the history of Jackson fell today. A total of more than 3 inches fell during the day. Heavy damage was done to bridges throughout the county, a number of them being washed away. The city was in darkness last night, the power plant being flooded.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES THE AFRICAN JUNGLES

Ex-President Sails for Khartoum---Five Hundred Animals Killed.

Gondokoro, Sudan, on the Upper Nile, February 28.—Colonel Roosevelt and the others of his immediate party sailed today on the steamer Dal for Khartoum, where they expect to arrive on March 15.

Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit killed some 500 specimens of large animals. The bag includes the following: 17 lions, 11 elephants, 10 buffaloes, 10 black rhinoceroses, 9 white rhinoceroses, 9 hippopotami, 9 giraffes, 3 leopards, 7 cietahs, 3 giant elands, 3 sables, 1 sitatunga and 2 bongos.

All these were killed in the interest of science.

From the point of importance the most highly-prized game may be rated as follows:

First, the giant elands, the first complete specimens of which family are now being taken from the country; second, the white rhinoceroses; third, the bongos, the first to be stalked and killed by a white man, and fourth, the sitatunga, a species of antelope.

Science will be enriched by several new species and an enormous series of the smaller mammals of Africa. The game taken and the collections made constitute a world's record for a similar period of hunting and scientific research in Africa.

COMMISSION IS READY TO APPORTION CONVICTS

The prison commission is now making preparations for the annual apportionment of convicts to the different counties of the state. In order for the counties to receive the benefits of the convict labor, a proper application for such must be made to the prison commission before the 1st of April.

This year there are 2,000 convicts. As yet the following counties have failed to make application; their names are shown, together with the number of convicts each is entitled to:

Habersham 9, Jeff Davis 6, Liberty 12, Lumpkin 7, Marion 8, McIntosh 6, Murray 8, Pierce 7, Polk 16, Rabun 6, Tolbert 11, Berrien 11, Catoosa 5, Chattahoochee 5, Chattooga 12, Dade 4, Dawson 5, Fannin 10, Gilmer 9, Glascock 4, Gordon 13, Grady 15.

Even with this a number have asked for the labor that did not last year, which will make it necessary to cut down the others.

He said the plays would not contain any references to gambling, smoking, drinking or similar matters; girls will not wear boy costumes; nor will any smoking be allowed about the theater. It is intended to provide entertainments every Saturday at a low charge, and an effort will be made to counteract the undesirable influence of some cheap picture shows.

A board of directors will manage the children's theater, among them being Dr. S. M. Samuels, Dr. F. G. Crouch, Mrs. David Ashby and Mr. J. B. Frost. Others will be added later. The office of the Children's Theater is at 500 Austell building.

Glee Club Concert.

Delightful in every way was the concert last night by the Glee Club of Agnes Scott Academy in the college chapel.

There is a very bright and talented group of young women composing this popular musical organization this year, and the program was received with enthusiasm by a large audience.

An Afternoon With Grieg.

During the few minutes yesterday allotted the library committee at the meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Club there was valuable revelation of the work of that committee, their methods of distributing books and the many ways in which they may be aided with very little trouble and no expense to those extending this assistance.

Mrs. S. M. Bowman is chairman of the committee, and her speakers were Mrs. Arthur Pew and Mrs. E. G. McCabe.

Mrs. Pew explained briefly the recent donation to the Marion Smith School of thirty books, the nucleus of a library, which will be added to from time to time by the "Boy Knights of the Round Table." This is a fraternal organization composed of Masters William Ingram, Marcus Beck, Sanford Gay, Arthur Pew, Robert Foreman, William Ellis, Arthur Powell, Thurmond Lumquest, Joseph Bowen, George Bratton, Perry Adair, Burton Pierce, Harry Etheridge, Vasser Woolley, George Wright, Harry Ashe, Samuel Bean. They have their club room at the home of one of the members, Marcus Beck, and one of their favorite diversions is reading. The books which they read last year and have outgrown, they have presented to the boys at the Marion Smith School, and the gift was a most laudable one.

Mrs. Pew also stated that through the courtesy of Miss Dunlap, principal of the Tenth street school, 105 First Readers have been donated by the pupils of her school who had completed their study of them to the library committee for use in the rural schools where they are most needed. She reminded the club women that the mountain and model schools will begin their summer terms just at the time the city schools here are closing their year, and she urged that the principals of other schools be approached as Miss Dunlap was, who could doubtless procure from their pupils similar gifts of books, which would mean everything to these rural schools.

Mrs. McCabe, chairman of the state library committee, spoke briefly of the work being done by the club women throughout the state in behalf of the free library movement and referred to the number of books donated in honor of Washington's birthday. Her talk was inspiring and interesting.

The library feature of the program was brief, as the program of the evening was devoted to music, the program arranged by Mrs. Edward Worcester, Jr.

The program was one paying tribute to Grieg, only the works of that composer being interpreted by a group of Atlanta's most talented musicians, among them Mr. Dahm-Petersen, Miss Eda Bartholomew, Mr. Whitney Hubner and Mr. Hunter Welsh. Miss Mary Lovelace and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill gave Bjornson's "Bergli," with musical setting by Grieg.

The program was in the nature of a most artistic treat.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of New York, the well-known scientist, made a short talk replete with vital suggestions and based on practical importance of keeping flies out of the house from the standpoint of sanitation and good health.

To Mrs. George C. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Smith arrive in the city Wednesday morning to visit Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson.

They will be cordially welcomed by their many Atlanta friends and will remain several days. Mrs. Jackson gives a reception to Mrs. Smith Wednesday afternoon. Thursday Mrs. John K. Ottley will entertain a small party at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy will entertain at a box party for Mr. and Mrs. Smith Thursday night.

Mrs. Albert Thornton will entertain at dinner in their honor Friday night. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Ellis entertain at a bridge supper for Mr. and Mrs. Bristol.

DISAPPEARED; FEEL SPLENDID

Stella Halquist, of Laporte, Minn., Tells How Her Troubles Disappeared After Taking Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

Laporte, Minn.—"I am getting along fine and feel splendid, since taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Stella Halquist, of this place.

"I used to have backache, headache, and that tired out feeling. I had other womanly troubles and dragging sensations, but they have almost disappeared now.

"I cannot praise Cardui enough, for it has done wonders for me."

Cardui is not mere nerve sedative or pain queller, and contains none of the new headache ingredients, the too frequent indulgence in which may be dangerous.

On the contrary, Cardui is harmless, as its ingredients are mild, tonic herbs, acting mainly on the female constitution and building up both nervous and vital energy.

No harmful effects can possibly come, to young or old, from the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and thousands of women have written, like Stella Halquist, to tell of the great benefit they obtained from its use.

Ask your druggist.

Note the Cardui Home Treatment for Women, consists of Cardui ($1), Thedford's Black-Draught (25c), or Velvo (50c), for the liver, and Cardui Antiseptic (50c). These remedies may be taken singly, by themselves, if desired, or three together, as a complete treatment for women's ills. Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed, the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by the fathers and mothers.

If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines when medicines are not needed, and when nature requires assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. As you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package. To get its beneficial effects it is necessary to purchase the genuine only. Buy a bottle today to have in the house when needed. Put up in one size only. Regular price 50c a bottle and for sale by all leading druggists.

MILLS TO RUN FOUR DAYS.

Condition of the Yarn Market Cause of Curtailment.

Charlotte, N. C., February 28.—The five plants of the Chadwick-Hoskins Manufacturing Company, the largest cotton mill corporation of the city, will be operated only four days of each week until further notice, according to instructions just issued to the superintendents of the various plants.

The Chadwick-Hoskins Company operates very nearly 1,000,000 spindles and looms to match, and this means that the entire machinery is being curtailed one-third. The condition of the yarn market is responsible for the action of the Chadwick-Hoskins Company in curtailing, and it is understood other Charlotte cotton mills may follow its example.

SENATORS HALED BEFORE COURT

They're Not Above Law, Says Judge Wright.

Supreme Court of District of Columbia Decides Senators Must Show Cause for Not Considering Bid of a Paper Company.

Washington, February 28.—Justice Wright, in the supreme court of the District of Columbia, today decided that the court acted entirely within its authority when it issued the writ of mandamus ordering the joint committee on printing of congress to show cause why it should not consider the bid of the Valley Paper Company, of Holyoke, Mass. This means that the senate members of the committee will be compelled to appear in court either in person or by counsel.

In a decision, which he took two hours to read, Justice Wright declared that to have refused to issue the mandamus because some of the persons sued occupied the exalted position of senators "would have been to betray the law."

"No man in this country is so high that he is higher than the law," declared Justice Wright. "Even the government of the United States is less than the law. What is there in the exalted position of a senator which prevents any citizen from laying what he believes to be an injury before the bar of justice?"

Whether the senators appear in court at this stage of the proceedings, the justice declared, is immaterial.

Members of the senate committee on the judiciary, which committee advised the action of the senate in ordering its members of the joint committee on printing to ignore the order of the district court, say that these senators are not in contempt, but only in default.

The senate members feel certain that the paper company's protest will be rejected on its merits. Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate committee on printing, stated that he would make no move whatever, as the whole question was for the senate.

OATH ADMINISTERED TO RODDENBERY

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, February 28.—(Special.)—Judge S. Anderson Roddenbery, of Thomasville, would probably call this his lucky day. He was sworn in as a member of the house of representatives this morning, succeeding the late Judge James Mathews Griggs, and this afternoon was advised of his appointment to one of the most coveted committee places in the house.

Representative Brantley resigned his position on the committee on public buildings and grounds, and Representative Roddenbery was selected by the speaker for the place. Mr. Brantley retains his membership on the ways and means committee and the judiciary committee.

The appointment of Mr. Roddenbery insures Georgia having a spokesman on the public buildings committee.

O. C. Grimes, of Berrien county, will be the secretary of Judge Roddenberry.

ALFRED S. JENKINS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services Will Be Held at 2 O'Clock This Afternoon.

Besides his son, he is survived by his second wife. He was a devoted member and deacon of the Jackson Hill Baptist church.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his son's residence, 148 Highland avenue, the Rev. C. J. Thompson, of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, conducting the services. The interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

"CITY OF MONTGOMERY" ADDED TO CENTRAL FLEET

The City of Montgomery

Newport News, Va., February 28.—This city was enlivened today by the presence of numerous guests from the south and north, gathered to witness the ceremonies attendant upon the launching of the handsome new passenger steamer City of Montgomery, for the Ocean Steamship Company, of Savannah. As the vessel rode gracefully down the ways and into the historic waters of Hampton Roads from the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, the time-honored ceremony of breaking a bottle of champagne over her prow was performed by Miss Helen Camp Steiner, of Montgomery, Ala., daughter of Major R. E. Steiner, and the ship christened in honor of the capital city of Alabama.

Near by in the stocks of the shipbuilders rested the vessel's sister ship, which, on March 15, will be given her initial trip and christened City of St. Louis. These two vessels will be notable additions to the Atlantic coastwise fleet when they are commissioned early this summer in the service of the Savannah line, between Boston, New York and Savannah. It was a realization of the gradually increasing industrial development of the south and the need of better transportation facilities for its growing coastwise trade that brought about the building of these two fine steamers.

With their twin screws these two new ships are expected to be able to set a pace which their coastwise companions will find it difficult to attain. They are spacious vessels of 6,200 tons each, length 404 feet, beam of nearly 50 feet and a draft line of 18½ feet when loaded. Water-tight compartments with bulkheads closed at an instant's notice make the vessels practically unsinkable.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

SHARP ADVANCE MADE IN THE COTTON MARKET

Showed More Strength Than at Any Previous Day Since Break in January.

New York, February 28.—The cotton market had a further sharp advance and, taking the day as a whole, probably showed more activity and greater strength than at any previous time since the January break. The close was a little off from the best under realizing, but steady at a gain of 11@28 points as compared with the last prices of Saturday.

The opening was firm at an advance of 6@21 points. There was a renewal of the demand for near months from leading spot interests and houses credited with doing business for the old bull leaders. Some of the local traders were inclined to sell on the advance, on the theory that the market had opened better than due on the Liverpool showing, but offerings caused only slight reactions, and the general upward tendency of the market was assisted by reports of a better spot demand from the south, bullish interior movement figures, talk of large engagements for March shipments still unfulfilled and further rumors of a bull deal in the active spring months. During the afternoon, March contracts sold at 14.70 and May at 14.82, or 27 to 35 points higher, and more than a cent a pound above the low level of last week. Trading became less active at this advance and prices eased off to 14.73 for May, under realizing, closing at that level. It was rumored that the old bull crowd stopped notices on at least 50,000 bales on Friday, and ocean freight brokers reported a further inquiry for freight room for shipment from New York to Liverpool.

Receipts at the ports today, 13,471 bales, against 14,609 last week, and 17,954 last year. For the week, 75,000 bales, against 82,462 last week, and 153,859 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 6,000 bales, against 2,969 last year.

Spot closed quiet, thirty points advance; middling uplands 14.55; middling gulf, 15.20; sales, 490 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, February 28.—Spot cotton steady, ⅛c higher. Sales on the spot 2,600 bales; to arrive 170; hedged cotton 400; low ordinary 11 1-16, nominal; ordinary 11⅞; good ordinary 13 5-16; strict good ordinary 13¾; low middling 14 3-16; strict low middling 14½; middling 14⅝; strict middling 14 15-16; good middling 15⅛; strict good middling 15 5-16; middling fair 15 7-16; middling fair to fair 15 13-16; fair 16 3-16; receipts 6,000; stock 189,790.

Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 13 to 16 points on the old crop months and 8 on the new crops. Cables were favorable and the weather may was bad, showing too much rain in the eastern belt and too little in the western. Both Liverpool and the continent were good buyers in this market and sent over bullish messages. Shorts were inclined to cover on rumors of a strong bull deal in the May position in New York and also on disquieting accounts of the inadequacy of the stocks at both Bremen and Liverpool when compared with the needs of spinners and the state of supplies in this country. After the call, professionals and ring traders bought freely and put prices of the old crops to a level of 17 to 18 points over Saturday's closing. October was fairly active at an advance of 10 points.

The market was dull, but very steady during the larger part of the morning session. Around the middle of the morning, the old crop months stood 22 to 24 points over Saturday's closing. From this level, there was a recession of about 5 points toward noon, caused by ring scalpers on the long side taking profits. Offerings from this source were quickly absorbed by a general demand and at noon the market was at about the highest levels of the day again. The new crops were not very active, but October scored an advance of 13 points and held the rise well. Private cable messages from Liverpool were bullish and English operators sent over a considerable number of buying orders for March and May. It was generally believed that this buying was for the account of spinners. Much of the steadiness of the market was due to reports from Texas of a good spot demand at a material advance.

In the afternoon session, the market was very dull, but in spite of the inactivity prices were sent to new high levels for the day, the old crops rising until they were 28 to 33 points over Saturday's closing while the new crops stood 15 to 17 points up. There was little cotton for sale around the ring and a moderate demand served to hold prices up. Bears bought more than they sold; bulls made no attempt to force the market. The closing was steady at a net advance of 21 to 25 points on the old crop months and 9 to 10 on the new.

Dry Goods.

New York, February 28.—There has been some easing in prices on cotton goods, notably on the heavier qualities. Second hands have been releasing print cloth yarn goods at lower figures. Cotton mills are being advised by selling agents to curtail the output until the market settles. Dress goods salesmen returning from the west report business slow on future delivery merchandise. Jobbing trade holds steady, but without any notable strength to the demand.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, February 28.—Closing: Cotton, spot moderate business done; prices 8 points higher; American middling fair, 8.46; good middling, 8.16; middling, 8.00; low middling, 7.00; good ordinary, 7.64; ordinary, 7.39. The sales of the day were 7,000 bales, of which 500 were for speculation and export and included 6,300 American. Receipts, 5,000 bales, including 4,900 American. Futures opened firm and closed very steady.

STOCKS ARE AWAITING DECISION OF COURT

Market Was About Same as That of Saturday---News of Wall Street.

New York, February 28.—The stock market today was not changed essentially from the dull and drifting markets of last week. The rise in prices was the complement of the fall on Saturday, which was based on the possibility that the supreme court would hand down a decision today in the American Tobacco cases. The assembling of the supreme court, however, was not awaited today for the covering up of Saturday's short contracts. There is no well informed expectation of a decision in the American Tobacco case until the arguments in the Standard Oil case have been presented to the court, the middle of the coming month, and these arguments, and the principle involved, have been ripely considered. The clearing up of this uncertainty, with the disposition of the case, will be welcomed throughout the financial world.

Various happenings were passed in review and canvassed today for their probable bearing of value with the hope of inducing some movement of prices. The market remained, however, almost wholly in professional hands and professional opinions were too vague and loosely held to sustain their holders in any extensive movement in one direction. Some of the bear covering of shorts may have been due to moderation of the strain in the Philadelphia situation. The labor situation there is viewed more for its possible sympathetic influence on the disputes between the railroads and various branches of the trainmen than for its own importance. The crops also came in for consideration, and the strength of the wheat market gave force to the further reports of weather damage to the winter crop.

There was nothing decisive enough from the iron and steel trade to shape speculative opinion definitely, but sentiment in that industry was perceptibly more cherful than earlier in the month and this was a factor in the firm undertone of the stock market. The various factors thus taken up proved ineffective to arouse an animation to the dealings.

The feature in the money and exchange market was the further advance in the foreign exchange rates before the demand for remittance for payment of maturing obligations in London. The discount rate there made a further advance, in spite of an easier tendency in Berlin and Paris. The world of speculation is absorbed in the doom in rubber shares in the London stock market. The signs of excess and wildness into which the movement is running aroused grave misgivings of a catastrophe to follow. Time loans in New York were called firmer.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,053,000.

WHEAT MAKES ADVANCE TO NEW CROP RECORD

Crop Damage Reports and Influential Buying Caused the Advance.

Chicago, February 28.—Wheat prices advanced sharply to a new record in the closing hours of the session today, on a wave of crop damage reports and influential buying. Corn and oats, responsive to the strength of wheat, developed firmness, but their advance fell far short of the increase in the major grain which made a new top price for the crop in all the futures. Provisions, accelerated by the higher prices for live hogs and the restricted arrivals of animals at the packing centers, leaped forward again with pork in the lead and gained from 10 to 35c on the closing figures.

Monotony in the wheat market in the first half of the day, with prices varying slightly up an down from Saturday's final figures, was swiftly changed to suppressed excitement and a sharp advance all along the line by heavy buying by leading speculative concerns. May soared from $1.14¾ to $1.15⅞@1.16, a new crop record price, under the stress of buying and the additional incentive of further reports of damage in the crops in the winter wheat belt. Many traders who have scorned to notice the early damage reports lent an ear to the repeated wails of frost and thaw destruction and jumped into the market with bids for grain. The more distant futures shared in the upturn and mounted almost as speedily as May, adding from 1⅝ to 1¾c to the low points, and also touching new crop high points at $1.08¾ for July and $1.04⅝ for September. The market showed little sign of recesion in the final minutes and closed strong at near the high point, with May 1¼c up at $1.15¾.

Corn was generally inclined to sag early in the day, the decline varying from ⅛ to ¼c with a small volume of trading. The advance in the wheat market caused a responsive movement in corn and developed strength which carried the futures from ½ to ⅝c above the low point. Pit traders led in the buiying and cash concerns were the principal disposers of the futures. May ran up from 65½@65⅝ to 66⅛, the other futures making a like progression. Cash corn prices remained unchanged with light offerings and a fair demand, No. 2 white closing at 63½@64c. The futures closed strong at near the high point, with May ⅜c up at 66⅛c.

Trade in the oats pit was featureless most of the day, the closing strength in wheat giving firmness to the market. May sold between 46⅞ and 47¼c. Closing figures were near the high point, with May ⅛@¼c up at 47¼c.

From the outset there was a strong tone in the provisions pit and prices advanced sharply, making new top records for many years in pork, which touched $24.55 for the May delivery. Longs were not hasty in meeting the demand of new investors, who sought to buy and doled out their holdings as the prices mounted skyward. Other products shared the gains with pork, though to a less degree. High prices for live hogs was the controlling factor in the bullish market. Closing prices for the May products were: Pork $24.55, 55c up; lard $13.20, 12½c up; and ribs $12.87½, 10c up.

Coffee.

New York, February 28.—Coffee futures opened quiet at unchanged prices and developed very little feature during the day. Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, February 28.—Liverpool has again been the principal buyer, taking in the last hour several thousand May and July. Apparently there was some liquidation by holders, who took advantage of the sharp advance of the week to dispose of their cotton. This constant demand from Europe is reducing the foreign short interest to small proportions and led many to expect a sharp reaction in the foreign markets tomorrow. The shipments from their interior towns are likely to cause a heavier movement at the ports. It is a curious situation, with European spinners buying because of a better demand for goods, while our own spinners complain of their inability to sell their output at near the cost of production.

Argo, Jester & Co.

New York, February 28.—Cables were about as due, but there were evidently a good many buying orders in the market at the opening and prices moved up quickly, as offerings were light. After the call shorts began to cover and bulls, who have been doing little of late, bought rather freely, causing a further advance, which was retained up to the close. Talk of a squeeze in May is more persistent than for some time past, and with the support in the market, has come advice of a better spot demand, particularly for March shipment, where engagements are said to be large. The market looks to be working into a condition similar to that in January, with contracts being accumulated at high prices and further advance should be regarded with suspicion. Local sentiment is rather mixed, with traders inclined to sell, but held back at the moment by fear of further forcing of prices.

Liverpool is due to open 2 points lower.

CANNON RULES SCORED BY HAMILTON FISH

Congressman Says That This Is Not a Representative Government.

Washington, February 28.—"Without a majority of three members of the committee on rules, no matter can even be considered in this house," shouted Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, after he had told of his inability to get action on a parcels post resolution in the house today.

"This is not a representative government," said Mr. Fish, continuing to denounce the rules.

Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, a member of the rules committee, suggested that when Mr. Fish was the presiding officer of the lower house of the New York legislature, it was not supposed that any committee of that body could exercise any independence, because they were controlled by a machine.

Chairman Tawney, of the committee on appropriations, suggested that Mr. Fish might move any day to discharge a committee from consideration of any measure before it, and to bring such measure before the house. Mr. Fish retorted that if he could get support, he would take that course tomorrow in respect to the parcels post resolution.

Business Methods Commission.

Washington, February 28.—Practically without opposition the senate today passed the Aldrich bill providing for the appointment of a government business methods commission, to be composed of five senators and five representatives.

MUCH WORK AHEAD OF THIS COMMITTEE

Data About Manufacturing Industries to Be Secured.

Under the direction of Brooks Morgan, chairman of the committee on manufactories of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, that body is going to secure for the use of its members a lot of valuable information concerning the manufacturing industries located in this city, and those which wish to locate here. This was decided upon at a meeting of this committee yesterday.

This afternoon the committee on public vehicles, of which Lewis H. Beck is chairman, will meet. This committee has to do with suggestions looking toward the proper restrictions to be placed upon all public vehicles, to include cabs, carriages, taxicabs, street cars and the like. The other members of the committee are J. Frank Beck, Bartow M. Blount, F. J. Cooledge, John M. Smith, T. B. Graves, Lloyd Parks, T. B. Hinman and Dr. A. L. Curtis.

On Wednesday of this week the regular monthly meeting of the directors will be held, to take up such matters as have been reported to this body by various committees.

FAIR BUILDINGS SOLD FOR THE SUM OF $4,370

Hugh Richardson and A. McLeod Are the Purchasers of the Structures.

For the sum of $4,370 the last three of the buildings which housed the Cotton States and International Exposition at Piedmont park in 1895 were sold at public auction at noon yesterday. The sale was made with the understanding that the buildings are to be removed before June 1, at which time the proposed improvements on the park will be made. With their wrecking, the last reminder of Atlanta's greatest fair will have passed away.

Steven R. Johnston acted as auctioneer and the bidding on all three buildings, which were sold separately, was spirited in the extreme. The coliseum went to Hugh Richardson for $2,650, while the government building was sold to the same party for $1,070. A. McLeod succeeded in buying the Georgia building for $500. The chairs and benches in the coliseum were sold to I. N. Ragsdale, of Oakland City, for $150.

ED J. PETERS WINS SUCCESS IN SHAWNEE

Ed J. Peters, an Atlanta boy, and a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, is making himself a name as an architect in Shawnee, Okla., where he now lives. Recently Mr. Peters was awarded the contract for the building of a hospital in Shawnee, his plans being accepted over those of a half dozen much older men. The building, according to accounts in the Oklahoma papers, will be quite a handsome affair, doing great credit to both Mr. Peters and the town in which it is to be erected.

Young Mr. Peters is one of the best known and most popular young men Atlanta has recently sent into the outer world. Born and reared here, where his father, Thomas Peters, the well-known life insurance man, has lived for many years, young Mr. Peters numbers his friends here by the hundreds. To these the news of his success will come as welcome tidings.

DR. EDMONSON CLOSES HIS WORK AS PASTOR

Affecting Scenes Are Witnessed at the Farewell Services.

At the Temple Baptist church last night Dr. J. T. Edmonson closed his work as pastor. It was one of the most affecting scenes that has ever been witnessed at the Temple church. Many of the congregation stood around and wept bitterly on account of his leaving. Dr. Edmonson himself broke down when a strong-hearted man came to him and said "You will always have a warm place in my heart. You are the cause of my salvation. You led me to see Jesus Christ. I would not have been saved if you had not come to the Temple church.

Dr. Edmonson goes back into the field of the evangelist. He had been in this work for 19 years before he took the pastorate of the Temple church. He is open for engagements in any place in the United States.

WHITE WAITERS BALK ON SERVING NEGROES

So No Black Delegates Will Attend Denver Laymen's Convention.

Denver, Col., February 28.—There will be no negro delegates among the 1,500 persons who will attend the banquet here Thursday, that inaugurates the Denver convention of the Laymen's Missionary movement.

Many negroes accepted invitations to the banquet, but when the caterer learned that negroes were to attend, he told the committee he had a contract with his white waiters, stipulating that they would not be called upon to serve negroes.

The committee then made other preparations for the negro delegates, but the latter announced today that they would not attend.

NO LOCAL TAXATION ON "POLICY LOANS"

Such Is Decision of Supreme Court of the United States.

Washington, February 28.—That the so-called "policy loans" or "premium line note loans" of insurance companies are not liable to local taxation was decided today by the supreme court of the United States.

The local tax authorities levied a tax on the agreements between insurance companies and their policy-holders, under which the companies advanced to their holders the reserve value of their policies. In the case of the New York Life Insurance Company it was sought to tax agreements that totaled $568,900.

The company brought the suit in the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Louisiana to enjoin the collection of the tax. That court held that the policy loans were not loans in the ordinary sense of the term, but rather partial and anticipated settlements to the company of its ultimate liability under the policies to its policyholders. An injunction was issued from which decree an appeal was brought to the supreme court of the United States.

POSTAL SAVINGS BILL WILL PROBABLY PASS

The Senate When the Vote Is Taken Thursday----Compromise Agreed Upon.

Washington, February 28.—The differences among senators regarding the provisions of the postal savings bank bill have been so reconciled that it is now believed its passage is assured when a vote is taken next Thursday. The compromise was agreed upon at a conference held today at Senator Carter's committee room in which the conflicting interests were represented.

Among those present were Senators Root and Smoot, the authors of the two provisions which, because of their opposite requirements, have caused so much embarrassment. Mr. Root probably will not present his amendment, and as substitutes for his own Mr. Smoot will introduce a number of shorter provisions, which are intended to prevent the withdrawal of the postal money from local banks and its investment in a common center.

Another amendment restricts the regulations of the board of trustees to such investments as are provided for by the terms of the bill. Still another amendment authorizes the withdrawal of the funds in case of great emergency.

INDICTED PACKERS MUST SHOW BOOKS
Or Jersey Prosecutor Will Ask for Dissolution of Corporations.

New York, February 28.—The next move of Prosecutor Garvin, of Hudson county, New Jersey, against the indicted packers and their companies will be to apply at Trenton, the state capital, for the minutes of the accused corporations. If these are not produced, an order will be asked compelling the companies to show cause why they should not be dissolved for contumacy. Prosecutor Garvin would not say tonight when he intends to take steps, but it was understood he will do so tomorrow.

The sheriff will shortly report which of the corporations and their officers indicted are now in his jurisdiction. Copies of the caplases and indictments against those elsewhere will then be sent to the police of the counties where they live. If the police decline to make arrests, the governor of New Jersey will then make requisition for extradition.

PRISON AND FINE FOR OLEO DEALER

Federal Inquiry Also Ordered by Judge Landis.

Alleges Open Defiance of Law by Oleo Dealers, and Congressman Moxley Is Named as Abetting--Landis Says Government Has Lost Thousands.

Chicago, February 28.—Federal inquiry into methods of disposing of oleomargarine was ordered today by Judge K. M. Landis, of the United States district court, after he had sentenced one of four dealers, who had been indicted for violating the oleomargarine regulations, to six years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth and fined him $15,000. The man was William Broadwell; the cases of the other three, Edward Broadwell, Samuel Drisbach and Daniel Bortz, were continued until Thursday.

"It has been disclosed that probably not less than $15,000 and possibly more than $20,000 has been lost by the United States government as a result of Broadwell's activities," said Judge Landis, in sentencing the olemargarine dealer. "Whenever arrested he has given bonds and then gone out and violated the law again the next day. It has been a wilful defiance of the law. His bond has been supplied by a manufacturer of the commodity which he sold illegally, a proceeding which I regard as my duty to say is highly significant."

Thomas Dudman, a purchasing agent for an oleomargarine concern, told of his connection with the case as bondsman for the indicted men.

"When you went on the bonds of these men, did you expect to be indemnified in case there was any loss?" asked Judge Landis.

"Yes, sir," replied Dudman.

"Who was going to indemnify you?"

"My employer, Mr. William J. Moxley."

Mr. Moxley is at present representative in congress from the Sixth district of Illinois.

Atlanta Is the Market For Merchants of the South.

There are merchants in Dixie toiling and sweating over discouraging balance-sheets when they ought to be smiling over big profits.

They're the fellows who go to far-away markets, pay long-distance freights on their stuff, miss sales because their goods are hung up on some distant railroad en route, and spend time, money and nerves in an unsatisfactory effort to do "something big."

Why so? Echo answers WHY?

Here we are at home. If we nourish and build up the South, the South will nourish and build us up. If we choose to enrich the coffers of the already-rich, Dixie is a dead one. If we pull together, it's prosperity for us all.

Atlanta Is the Most Accessible Town in the South. Why?

There are 89 towns of 4,000 population and upward in Georgia, the Carolinas, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi. The average distance of these towns from Atlanta is 281 miles, which is 80 to 170 miles less than the distance from the nearest important centers.

Atlanta is superbly railroaded.
Atlanta has the goods.
Atlanta can deliver the goods.
Atlanta wants your business.
Atlanta is the cheapest market for you.
Atlanta will pay your way.

Your spring buying is closely related to your spring selling. Atlanta will make both a success for you. Come to Atlanta for your goods.

FOR COMMERCE COURT COMMITTEE VOTES
One of the Principal Features of Administration Railroad Bill.

Washington, February 28.—By a majority of two, the house committee on interstate commerce today voted to create the interstate commerce court, which is one of the principal features of the Townsend administration railroad bill. This is the provision for which the president and the attorney general have been fighting to have kept in the bill. The vote in the committee was ten to eight.

Chairman Mann and Representative Stevenson, of Minnesota, republicans, and Representatives Adamson of Georgia, Richardson of Alabama, Bartlett of Georgia, Russell of Texas, Sims of Tennessee, and Peters of Massachusetts, voted against the commerce court.

TRIBUTE TO JEWS BY PRESIDENT TAFT

Administration's Attitude Towards Bills Limiting Immigration Explained.

Washington, February 28.—In replying to a delegation from the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, who called at the white house to protest against certain immigration bills pending in congress, President Taft today paid a high tribute to the Jews who had come to America from various parts of the world and had become imbued with a true spirit of patriotism.

"The question of limiting immigration," said the president, "in such a way as to shut out the undesirable part of the population of Europe, which comes here rather by the artificial stimulation of those whose interest it is to have as many come as possible, is a question which has addressed itself to congress in the past. They rejected—for I was present in congress when it was done—the educational limitation, on the ground that the limitation was one which did not shut out those whom we most desired to shut out, and that the anarchist—a man who comes here with no loyalty to the new government—is the man who could easily pass a mental examination.

"Now, all I can say about this, because I cannot commit myself to any particular form of legislation, is that insofar as I am concerned, I shall sign no bill without giving you gentlemen a full opportunity to be heard. It is possible that I shall differ with you, but I think that where a hearing is given a safer conclusion is likely to be reached.

"In going about this country thirteen thousand miles as I did last year, the thing which impressed me more than anything else was the fact that the process through which we had gone, of welcoming immigrants from everywhere and mixing them and amalgamating them with our population had produced a distinctive type of American, as distinguished from any of the people of which that type was made up and that, therefore, were we to impose unjust burdens and stop immigration, we should go back on that which, up to this time, had enabled us to be a great people.

"I only want to say one more word. I visited the East Side in New York about two years ago and I was exceedingly impressed with the fact that the Jewish population there had recognized the opportunity this country afforded to them, that the young men and women who had attended the public schools and who had settled in that part of New York had appreciated to the fullest the benefits that this country had conferred, and that there was no part of the country in which the real, true spirit of patriotism prevailed more deeply than there. That threw a somewhat new light on my general view of the situation with respect to the laws of immigration and how they ought to be enforced."
